Rampaging River Pours New Destruction on Lowlands

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Mississippi River, boiling over its banks and choked with ice and debris, poured new destruction today over lowlands in this capitol city of Minnesota.

A wooden bridge was wrenched from its moorings and sent tumbling into the muddy water that covered thousands of acres below the downtown section of St. Paul.

Higher crests were forecast by the Weather Bureau with the prediction this would be the worst flooding in the state's history from the Twin Cities southeastward to the Wisconsin state line.

Dike workers were reinforced in a score of communities fighting the rising waters with sandbag levees.

Joseph Strub, the bureau's flood forecaster, said the river will crest one or two feet above previous forecasts and the crest probably will stay at the high mark for three to five days.

"This also means the water will be subject to considerable wave action and any rains of an inch or more will mean more trouble," Strub said.

Some light rain was forecast during the next few days.

The flood already has caused more than $23 million damages in Minnesota, sent some 18,000 to 20,000 out of their homes and caused 10 drownings.

In Minneapolis, a crest of 21 feet was expected today. This is 5 feet above flood stage and 1½ feet above the 1952 record flood.

Some industrial areas in northeast Minneapolis already are flooded and more will be inundated before the water recedes, Weather Bureau forecasters said.

In St. Paul, the Mississippi was expected to crest at 27 feet late today or Saturday. Flood stage is 14 feet and the river was at about 26 feet today.

Reinforced and raised dikes in St. Paul were leaking in scores of places. The railroad freight yards and the downtown city airport were under two to six feet of water.

A 50-foot wooden bridge linking lower St. Paul with Navy Island and a federal training station in the Mississippi collapsed into the water and wedged under a railroad trestle.

At Hastings, where the flooding St. Croix River joins the Mississippi, a mile-long sand dike at an Army lock and dam was threatened with breaks. Any serious break would cause flooding and cripple equipment used to operate the locks. Boats and barge traffic on the upper Mississippi is dependent on the locks.

The Mississippi's stage at Hastings was over 24 feet, 9 feet above flood stage. Its crest is expected to be 25 feet Saturday.

Downstream at Red Wing the river was about 2 feet under the 20½ foot crest expected Saturday. Flood stage is 14 feet. Reinforced dikes at Red Wing leaked heavily and the sewage disposal plant was flooded out of operation.

At Lake City a crest of 22 feet was expected Sunday, a foot above the earlier prediction, and at Wabasha a 19 foot crest is expected, about 1½ feet above previous estimates. Both communities were fighting dike leaks and spillage and parts of the cities already were under water.

The Mississippi at Winona stood at about 17½ feet today, 1½ feet above flood stage and the revised crest was estimated at 21 feet Tuesday.

Volunteers used logger's pikes to fend ice away from an eight-mile dike so that the Mississippi would not flood over the dike and create a new channel through the city of 25,000 persons. Hundreds of workers filled sandbags to raise the dike.

ICE INCREASES FLOOD PERIL—Huge chunks of Mississippi river ice jams against a bridge at a bend in the big stream 15 miles north of St. Cloud. The bridge crosses the mouth of a small tributary. Similar jams in the Mississippi and other flooding Minnesota streams have aggravated flood conditions. Woman spectator extends a protective hand as youngster peers into swirling ice-choked water. Moorman Named New Academy Superintendent

Lt. Gen. Thomas S. Moorman, now vice commander in chief of the Pacific Air Force, will become the new superintendent of the Air Force Academy in July.

He will replace Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren who is being reassigned as chief of the Air Force Systems Command at Andrews AFB, Maryland.

The announcement of the switch came from President Johnson at press conference in Johnson City, Tex.

Warren has been superintendent since July 9, 1962, and is completing his three-year tour of duty. It was during Warren's term that 109 cadets were dismissed for cheating.

The new commander graduated from West Point in 1933 and received his pilot's wings in 1934.

He holds a master of science degree from the California Institute of Technology and took advance study of meteorology at MIT.

During the war he served as staff weather officer with the 9th Air Force in Europe and in 1945, he was made deputy chief of the Air Weather Service in this country. After a European tour of duty, he returned to the Air Weather Service and assumed command of the unit in 1954.

In 1961 he assumed his present position with the Pacific Air Force.

Gen. Moorman is married and the father of four children.

Judge's Bicycling Son Killed by Tank Truck

The 12-year-old son of District Court Judge William M. Calvert was killed almost instantly Thursday when he was run over by the rear dual wheels of a huge truck-tanker at Cheyenne Road and Nevada Avenue.

Matthew Calvert, 808 Orion Dr., was taken to St. Francis Hospital by E & E Ambulance following the tragic accident but was pronounced dead on arrival there at approximately 3:45 p.m.

According to State Patrolman J. D. Morrisey, the Calvert boy had stopped on his red and white bicycle for a signal light at Nevada Avenue, and was on the right side of the truck, which was also eastbound on Cheyenne Road and waiting for the red light. When the light changed the truck, driven by Thomas J. Elliott, 48, 1902 S. Hancock Ave., began to turn right onto Nevada Avenue. The boy started forward and, seeing that the truck was going to cut him off, attempted to avoid the collision.

In doing so he apparently lost his balance on the bicycle he was riding and fell to the pavement. The rear wheels of the truck struck the bicycle and then the Calvert boy. The boy died of head injuries and a crushed chest, according to the report.

The boy had no identification on his person at the time of the accident and it took the patrol approximately 45 minutes to discover his name. He was identified at St. Francis hospital by Judge Calvert.

According to Patrolman Morrisey, Elliott never saw the Calvert boy and only discovered what had happened after shouts from witnesses caused him to stop the truck. The truck, a massive propane gas carrier, weighed approximately 28,000 pounds.

The boy's body was taken to Law Mortuary Thursday, and arrangements for the funeral will be announced later. The Calverts have one other child, a boy, who [illegible] kindergarten.

Soviets May Enter U.S. War With Red Viet Nam

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reports have reached Washington that a site for Russian antiaircraft missiles is being built near Hanoi, the North Viet Nam capital.

There is no evidence so far, U.S. sources said Thursday night, that Russian missiles actually are in North Viet Nam. But it is assumed they would be sent in once the launching pads are completed. And Washington also is assuming that Soviet personnel are in charge of the sites.

The introduction of Soviet missiles could have a monumental effect on the war in Viet Nam — both politically and militarily.

For one thing, direct Soviet intervention in the conflict would give the Soviet Union a greater stake in the outcome. For another, the missiles could cause a revision of U.S. bombing strategy.

The missiles that reportedly will defend the Hanoi region are SAMs, a surface-to-air rocket that can be fired to an altitude of 80,000 to 100,000 feet.

The Russians installed 24 such sites in Cuba and it was thought to be a SAM missile that brought down Francis Gary Powers when he flew high over the Soviet Union in a U2 spy plane in 1960.

The United States has been bombing targets in North Viet Nam since Feb. 7, gradually intensifying the attack and moving closer to Hanoi. But raids on the capital have been avoided.

Even before the U.S. air attacks began, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin told a rally in Hanoi that Moscow was ready to give North Viet Nam all necessary assistance if aggressors encroached upon its territory and sovereignty.

He underscored the veiled threat by pledging assistance to North Viet Nam before returning home. And, on Feb. 26 he told the Russian people by television that if U.S. attacks were not discontinued, the war in Viet Nam "will inevitably transcend its original boundaries."

Last week, an obstacle to the flow of Russian arms aid to North Viet Nam — a ban on shipment through Communist China — was reported overcome.

Diplomatic sources in Moscow said that as a result of conferences in Peking, the Chinese had agreed to stop obstructing the shipments.

U.S. intelligence has been on the alert for the appearance of Russian antiaircraft missiles in North Viet Nam since the Soviet Union promised increased aid.

At times, Radio Hanoi has spoken of training "thousands upon thousands of rifles and guns" on the American planes. MIG fighters have scrambled to intercept the U.S. planes and in the first encounter downed two of them.

The North Vietnamese also have been defending their terrain from gunboats.

Early this month the Pentagon received reports that indicated the Communists were using heavier caliber antiaircraft weapons — from 57mm to perhaps as much as 80mm in contrast to the 37mm fire that has been encountered earlier.

Planners Deny Printers Home Proposal for Shopping Center

By JOHN KUGLIN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

"If you deny it you'll regret it for years to come," Dowell Patterson, superintendent of the Union Printers Home, warned the City Planning Commission Thursday shortly before it denied a zone change to permit construction of a regional shopping center on the union's property.

Commissioners were considering a change requested from single family residential to planned business center (PBC 3) for 43.5 acres southwest of Garo and Pikes Peak Avenues near the Montgomery Ward store.

"There is a great movement afoot to keep the Union Printers Home from developing its land," Patterson charged.

"What's wrong with us?" he asked. "Is it prejudice? I think it is."

Patterson said the union must develop its land to raise funds for operating the Home. "We can't meet the expenses that will be heaped on us by Medicare and other inflationary measures," Patterson said.

After almost a two-hour consideration, commissioners denied the zone change request by a 5-1 vote. Commissioner O. L. Clark voted against denial. The union can still appeal to the City Council.

The audience clapped loudly after the zone change was disapproved.

Before Thursday's meeting, an overall development plan for the area was presented to the City Planning Department for 152.7 acres of the union's land (including the proposed shopping center), the Gazette Telegraph reported Monday. However, the Commission was only considering the 43.5 acre shopping center at its Thursday meeting.

The plan "bears reality only to the pocketbook of the Printers Home" and is an expedient to "make a deal with J. C. Penney & Denver Dry," charg-

Man Faces Third Trial in Murder Case

Laverne Jackie Jones who has already been sentenced to death twice for murder will be tried for a third time on a change of venue in Colorado Springs.

Jones, 30, formerly of La Junta, has been charged with the Feb. 11, 1959 robbery slaying of David Powell, a former night clerk at El Otero Hotel, now the Kit Carson Hotel in La Junta.

The defendant was first sentenced to death in July 1959 but was granted a stay of execution by the Colorado State Supreme Court. Early in 1961 the court upheld the conviction and set execution for April 1961.

A few weeks later the court reversed itself and ordered a new trial on the grounds that the jury's penalty might have been different if it had heard a psychiatrist who was unable to testify.

The second trial was held

Atomic War No Solution, Nuclear Scientist Says

Red China's Mao Tse-tung must be made to realize the idiocy of risking the destructive power that nuclear war would unleash, in the opinion of Dr. Ralph W. Ladd, whose two decades of participation in the development of the atomic age has made him an authority on nuclear weapons and radioactive fallout.

"If Mao gets the wrong idea, nuclear deterrent as an instrument of peace will fail," the scientist told the Winter Night Club at its final dinner meeting of the 1964-65 season Tuesday night in the Broadmoor Hotel.

In his feuding with Khrushchev, Mao indicated, according to Dr. Ladd, nuclear war might not be so bad if half the population survived.

Historically, China has absorbed foreign invaders, but radioactive fallout is a different kind of invader, Dr. Ladd emphasized.

"Mao must understand that fallout would raise the total Chinese dead to 450 million, leave the land unlivable for years, and the soil so contaminated it could not be used safely to raise crops for 20 to 30 years."

This nuclear power to destroy held back Khrushchev's hand in the Cuban confrontation, he said. The Russian dictator got the message from his own scientists, and Dr. Ladd said possession of the bomb, which China now has, is self-educating in its danger.

He quoted Defense Secretary McNamara as saying the U.S. Polaris missile could kill 100 million Russians and destroy

Another Strike by 80 Navy Planes Termed Successful

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — About 80 U.S. Navy planes hit three highway bridges in North Viet Nam today. A U.S. military spokesman said the strikes were successful.

All planes returned safely with only minor damage, the spokesman said, adding that no enemy planes were sighted.

He said a direct hit was registered on the north side of the Bai Duc Thon Bridge, 170 miles south of Hanoi, and its north approach also was damaged.

Two parallel bridges were attacked at Xom Ca Trang, 185 miles south of Hanoi. The spokesman said one span of the larger bridge was knocked into the water. One hit was reported on the smaller bridge, but the spokesman said dust and smoke prevented an accurate estimate of the damage.

The South Vietnamese air force claimed it sank four North Vietnamese warships Thursday night in its second night raid above the 17th parallel.

The spokesman did not explain how the airmen identified the craft as warships in the dark.

The size of the vessels was not given. The spokesman said they were assumed to be Communist warship because they were moving near the North Vietnamese coast, there was no report of friendly ships in the area, and they fired at the attacking planes.

The raid was led by Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, the Vietnamese air force commander. The planes also strafed a Communist military installation at Vinh Son and set it ablaze after running into groundfire, the spokesman said.

All the planes returned safely to Da Nang Air Base, he said.

Night raids against North Viet Nam began Wednesday when South Vietnamese bombers hit a military convoy and U.S. Navy planes ranged northward. The North Vietnamese newspaper Nhan Dan asserted that the United States has "taken another extremely dangerous step."

"The night pirates will be crushed, just as the day pirates are bitterly beaten," it said.

Viet Cong guerrillas killed all the dogs in the village of Mieu Dong, 7 miles south of Da Nang, possibly to prevent them from barking a warning if the Reds attempt an attack on the big U.S.-Vietnamese base.

Reports reached Washington that launching pads for Russian

Fears of Strike Are Renewed in Steel Industry

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Strike fears rose today after the United Steelworkers Union rejected a steel industry proposal to swap some contract improvements for an extention of the May 1 strike deadline.

"I'm never discouraged, but I am disappointed now," said steelworkers President David J. McDonald Thursday after rejection of the latest industry proposal.

Both the union and the basic steel industry declined to reveal the cash value of the proposal.

But a union source said it was about five cents an hour per man for the duration of a limited agreement that could run from 60 days to 6 months. Some 450,000 USW members are employed in basic steel.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, criticized the union as "a house divided against itself." He blamed it for crisis bargaining which he said has upset the domestic steel market and allowed imports to pour into the country.

He said the industry proposal would have allowed the market to stabilize, added money to workers' paychecks, and permitted the union to settle the

Joan Again Refuses to Pay Full Tax

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Folk singer Joan Baez filed her income tax return Thursday hours before the deadline and again applied some withholding of her own to the taxes she owes Uncle Sam.

For the third straight year the 24-year-old singer has sent in only 40 per cent of the taxes due.

"I shall again refuse to pay that 60 per cent of my income tax which goes for armaments," she wrote the Internal Revenue Service.

Miss Baez's current return showed she owed the government $57,330. Her check was for $22,920.

New CIA Chief Is Facing Reconstruction Problem

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Admiral William Raborn, newly-named head of the Central Intelligence Agency, is confronted with three critical emergencies — all involving the grimly intensifying Viet Nam conflict.

Although still awaiting Senate confirmation and certain to have no time to get settled in his new job, the former "father" of the Polaris missile faces:

Immediately reconstituting the CIA staff in South Viet Nam, badly shattered by the terror bombing of the Saigon embassy. Nearly half of the key CIA personnel were disabled by flying glass and other debris. These heavy casualties included deaths and blindings. One report to the White House described these severe losses as "the Pearl Harbor of the CIA."

Getting at the bottom of a Buddhist-instigated conspiracy to stage widespread anti-American demonstrations and riots the latter part of May with the aim of ousting the present South Viet Nam government and setting up a neutralist regime that would come to terms with Communist Hanoi.

Developing a system of procedures in Washington to bring more quickly and definitely to the attention of President Johnson and his top policy-makers urgently significant CIA reports — such as the warning the Viet Cong planned to dynamite the Saigon embassy.

This is the undisclosed tragedy of that murderous outrage.

Several weeks before, CIA reported that Communist terrorists would attempt to blow up the embassy, using a truck or car for this purpose. This advance information from underground sources did not specify a date. But it was explicit that preparations had been completed and the attack could occur at any time.

This warning was ignored, or overlooked, by both Ambassador Taylor and Washington authorities. President Johnson never saw it, although members of his staff did.

President Kennedy closely scrutinized a sheaf of reports from the "intelligence community" every morning on arising. Johnson doesn't do that. Near the close of his work day, he receives an intelligence summary, which he may or may not study during the evening.

NEW BUDDHIST PLOT

For some time reliable intelligence sources in South Viet Nam have been advising that certain Buddhist elements are

Two Killed by Sudden Storm In Tennessee

CLEVELAND, Tenn. (AP) — An erratic storm swooped down from the Cumberland Plateau and bombed east Tennessee with tornadoes, hail and rain Thursday. Two persons were killed and about 200 were left homeless.

Damage estimates ran high into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The heaviest assault was at a trailer park near Cleveland, where a twister overturned 55 house trailers injuring 50 persons. None of the occupants suffered severe injuries.

Andy Norris, 69, of Crossville, was killed by an uprooted tree as he fed his cattle. Ty Speck, 49, a Sparta, Tenn., school teacher, died of a heart attack while climbing onto his roof to repair hail damage during the storm.

A storm system swirled across the eastern two-thirds of the state during a four-hour period. Heavy property damage was caused by high winds and hailstones the size of hens' eggs which accumulated to depths of six inches in some area.

Besides Cleveland, tornadoes hit the Tansi resort near Crossville, Allardt on the Cumberland Plateau, and Loudon and Knox Counties a few miles west of Knoxville.

At the Cleveland trailer camp, rescue workers searched through the wreckage to free screaming persons trapped for several hours. The National Guard and several churches set up shelters for the more than 200 persons left homeless. The entire guard unit was deployed in the damaged sections to prevent looting.

Modern Foods a Possible Source of Human Cancer

By PAT McGRADY

While much of the world is still stalked by hunger, the United States is richly fed —perhaps overfed.

The American food industry spends more than $100 million a year to develop new food products.

Chemicals protect animals and plants from disease, predatory insects and pests. Food products are preserved against decay by freezing, canning, packaging and organism - resisting chemicals. Two-thirds of the seven or eight thousand articles on supermarket shelves did not exist 15 years ago. Their natural beauty is maintained with anti-aging compounds and enhanced with dyes.

And some of these additives cause cancer when injected into animals.

By contrast to the protection afforded domestic plants and animals, the wild creatures of the North American continent have begun to disappear. Pesticides and other chemicals considered essential to modern farm management have poisoned them.

A few years ago rainbow trout became the beneficiaries of advances in the science of nutrition.

In United States hatcheries, they were given a cleverly concocted diet containing traces of arsenicals designed to destroy disease-causing amoebae, sulfa drugs to do away with other infections, oxidized fatty acids, vitamin supplements and cheap vegetable protein instead of more costly meat protein.

In 1960 scientists were appalled: 80 or 90 per cent of the trout kept in hatcheries for three years had developed liver and lung cancer. Fish as young as six or eight months old were coming down with the disease.

At this writing, the responsible agent has not been identified. The epidemic could be due to a combination of dietary chemicals, each by itself incapable of promoting cancer to any great degree.

Scientists says something like this could happen to humans exposed en masse to untested technical "advances" in nutrition.

The fight to monitor the contents of the U.S. food supply has been a long one—dating to Reconstruction days and a federal "poison squad" that found such contaminants as formaldehyde in milk and cocaine in soft drinks.

A NO MAN'S LAND

Commissioner of Food and Drugs George P. Larrick, in 1957, urged strengthening and modernization of the U. S. Food and Drug law. He said:

"We have had some very narrow escapes because of the use of additives that had no place in food. It is inconceivable that this country should continue to expose itself indefinitely to the risks inherent in the present scheme of food control."

He insisted the law should require adequate testing of a chemical before it is used in food although, he said, there is no evidence that any food distributed in the United States "produces cancer when it is eaten."

There is undeniable evidence, however, that some substances in human food cause cancer when injected into animals.

Commissioner Larrick estimated a few years ago that about 400 chemicals were being used for various purposes in food production. He divided the additives into three categories—about 150 of them known to be harmless, another 100 considered "safe" in the quantities normally used, and the remaining 150 "a scientific no-man's land —our scientists do not know whether they are safe or not, but they suspect some of them ought not to be in use."

In 1958 and 1960, Congress legislated amendments to the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act which placed a ban on old and new risky additives in food and on substances shown to be carcinogenic when eaten by animals.

The food industry, fearful of a "hard" enforcement policy, resented the indefiniteness of the law. Some scientists, sensing too "soft" an interpretation, also were concerned. No one seemed completely happy.

What are food additives? Most simply, they are anything added to food.

Some additives are unintentional, more or less unavoidable and deplored by producer, seller, and consumer; these include pesticides, insecticides, fertilizer residues, and bacterial and viral contamination.

Many additives are intentional and beneficial, like vitamins occasionally added to compensate for vitamins lost in processing food. Some are controversial, including many suspects substances which increase production, improve marketability and serve the producer's and sellers' purposes but are of doubtful value to consumers.

Then there are widely advertised "miracle" ingredients which often serve no purpose other than to enrich the producer at the expense of credulous consumers.

A LINK WITH OVEREATING

Few of the adulterants or additives are ever in such concentration as to produce an immediate toxic reaction more serious than a transient digestive disturbance, but meal-after-meal exposure to traces of 10, 20, or 30 different toxins very conceivably could result in a variety of chronic conditions.

Tannic acid, which has caused cancer when injected into experimental animals, is a natural component of tea, coffee and cocoa. Safrol, a now-banned ingredient of some soft drinks, has induced animal cancers.

Antibiotics, a few of which have been shown to cause animal cancers and many of which can put a sensitized person into shock, are commonly used to enhance the growth of livestock and poultry and to protect chilled and canned meats. Despite the law, antibiotics used against bovine mastitis do get into the human milk supply.

Male and female hormones are used liberally to enhance the grow thand tissue texture of livestock and poultry. And these, in large and regular doses, have caused cancer in experimental animals.

Even cooking meat at high temperatures for long periods has raised suspicions of cancer dangers. Meat oils and fats at extreme temperatures (over 615 degrees F) form at least two hydrocarbons of the kind known to induce cancer in animals.

Curious too is the link between cancer and overeating. Excess weight leads to early death from many disease, including cancer. Lean animals and people are the longest lived.

Simple dietary restriction has reduced the incidence of disease in colonies of cancer-susceptible mice. A few human studies have indicated that proneness to cancer increases with weight; international observers have reported that among the rare advantages of living in wartime German-occupied Europe and the consequent reduction of calories was a reduction in cancer.

There is growing public attention to the problem of cancer and man's environment, including his food.

Thanks largely to the late Rachel Carlson and her eloquent "Silent Spring" — an indictment against the indiscriminate use of pesticides—several official bodies have begun to look into the consequences. So far little concrete action has been taken.

Attention has been centered on the acute and immediate toxity of pesticides. Scarcely investigated and largely ignored are the very real possibilities that the chronic effects of pesticides —and of other additives, pollutants and contaminants — may be just as lethal as the acute effects.

In various combinations over long periods, they might cause cancer.

ROCKS UNDER FIRE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Indiana University professors can get rocks out of their pockets if a bill sponsored by Rep. Katherine Fruits is passed. Her bill seeks to remove from the books an 1823 law which requires any Indiana University professor who accepts a speaking engagement to bring back a rock from each county he visits for the university's geological study. It also states that the professor must speak once in each county before he may return to speak again in any particular one.

Influence of TV Seen on Easter

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Eleanor Hertel, first grade teacher at school 79, found what Easter means to the modern child when she issued this assignment:

"Using a story or drawing, complete this situation—Mr. Rabbit was getting ready for Easter, then something happened."

One child sketched a bunny bombing baskets from a jet plane. Another submitted the story of a monster attacking eggs.

"You can see the influence of TV and movies," Mrs. Hertel said.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D.,Ph.D.

Opal's problem is common and is one of the basic reasons why over 25 per cent of marriages end in divorce and another 25 per cent are beset with caustic, quarreling mates who make life miserable for their innocent children. Wives are 50 per cent at fault, so follow Opal's smart example and prevent divorce!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE V-465: Opal R., aged 37, is the worried wife whose husband had suddenly become a drunkard and a wreckless auto driver.

So she wanted me to have a visit with Walter, which I did.

Walter was evasive and belligerent at first, for platonic males are embarrassed to discuss their problem, even with us medics.

However, Walter's "syndrome" (group of typical symptoms) was as apparent as the standard five symptoms of acute appendicitis.

All I had to do was bolster his ego a bit and then let him burst out with his confession.

"Dr. Crane," he admitted, "our marriage has been platonic for almost a year.

"And for a couple of years before that, I had difficulty becoming ardent with reference to my wife.

"That was one reason why I became such a devoted Boy Scout Master, for this kept me away from home many nights.

"And I could thus justify my lack of romantic ardor on the ground that the hikes with the boys had exhausted me.

"But after our two sons finished high school, I panicked. Lacking any solution, I finally consulted a genito-urinary specialist.

"He told me I was simply organically deficient so he started giving me hormones by hypodermic.

"But after three months, I was no better, so I just decided it was the end!

"And, Dr. Crane, that's a terrible frame of mind for a man to be in!

"So I'd fluctuate between periods of depression or moodiness in which I even considered swallowing a bottle of sleeping pills, followed by a desire to kill myself.

"Then I started drinking to get away from my problems — and also distract Opal's attention from my real difficulty.

"For I dreaded to tell her the truth, fearing she'd be disgusted with me.

"At times I figured, since I didn't have the nerve to swallow an overdose of the sleeping pills and check out that way, that I'd drive my car at breakneck speed, hoping a front tire would blow out.

"Then, if I was killed, I figured it would be fate. Dr. Crane, do you have any other solution?"

Fear is a product of the brain or cerebral cortex.

Love is largely a product of the emotions.

And in psychology we stress the axiom that you cannot cerebrate and emote at the same time without having one or the other of these opposing processes inhibit its rival.

As soon as a husband grows scared about his erotic vigor, he begins to watch his behavior next time.

And this very act of "watching" means that his brain is taking over. He is cerebrating; hence, his ardor becomes even less.

After a couple of failures, he becomes a victim of an erotic inferiority complex. Alas, this affects millions of husbands!

And you wives are largely to blame, for you dare not remain the passive partner in lovemaking, at least after you have been married 10 years!

A smart wife, as Opal proved to be, can banish impotence in her husband in one night, so send for the booklet "How to Prevent a Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Phantom Jets Used by U.S. in Viet Nam War

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has started using the supersonic Phantom jet fighter to guard fighter-bombers from Communist MIG attack in raids into North Viet Nam.

Fifteen F4C Phantoms supported an equal number of F105 fighter-bombers on strikes against two radar stations Wednesday.

Sources said this was the first mention in reports of the appearance of the Air Force version of the Phantom in an escort role in the skies over Viet Nam.

A squadron of 18 F4C Phantoms arrived in Thailand about a week ago after a flight which reportedly began at MacDill Air Force Base in Florida.

The move was one of several made by the Air Force after two F105s were shot down by Communist MIGs during a bridge attack. In that first air combat between U.S. planes and North Vietnamese jets, the F105s were escorted by F100 Supersabre jets. The F100s are older and slower than the Phantoms.

The Phantom is equipped with radar which can sweep the skies in front of it. The F100 had no such radar and a more limited weapons fire control.

The Navy has flown its version of the Phantom, the F4B, against the Communists.

One Phantom was lost late last week during a scrap near Communist China's Hainan Island, across the Gulf of Tonkin from North Viet Nam.

The Chinese claimed the Phantom was downed by a missile from another American plane. The United States claimed one Communist MIG in that battle.

The Marine Corps has stationed a squadron of Phantoms at Da Nang, where the Marines have built up sizable ground strength to protect that important air-naval base from possible ground attack by Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

TRAILER REALLY TRAILS

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Apparently William Pirie, 21, of Marion, Iowa, doesn't look through his car's rear view mirror often. He drove onto the Kansas Turnpike at Kansas City pulling a 14-foot house trailer behind his car. At a service station at Lawrence, Kan., 30 miles later, he learned that the trailer was missing. Police found the trailer in a ditch seven miles from Lawrence where it had worked loose from Pirie's car and crashed.

By Ele and Walt Dulaney

Dear Ele and Walt: I'm going with this wonderful girl whose parents and relatives are also wonderful except for one big failing. Almost everytime I go over to my girl's house or to her grandmother's they always wind up asking me to eat something like cheesecake or pizza.

Of course I've had a big dinner at home and then to have to practically shove the food down my throat, that's too much.

How can I tell them once and for all, that when I'm not hungry I'm not hungry — and don't want to eat without hurting their feelings? I know they mean well, but all this forced feeding is putting pounds on me that I can't afford. —Stuffed

Dear Stuffed: Many families feel it's not proper to eat unless all guests are munching, too. They literally overwhelm you with hospitality. Since your girl's family is like this, accept the fact. If you can't time your dates so that you'll miss dinner hour or snack time, make it a rule to eat a small dinner on days you plan to see her. Then you'll have room for her family's chow.

When you're served, take the thinnest slice and the smallest glass, and then eat and drink as slowly as possible. Got it? —Ele and Walt

Dear Ele and Walt: I have finally enough courage to write you about my brother. In the past year, he's turned himself into an alcoholic. At first he just drank to be sociable like other people, but now he's always nursing the bottle.

Since he is of age and can do what he pleases, my parents' advice goes unheard. My parents arent' young anymore, and worrying about this problem has seriously affected their health. I don't live at home, but I'm willing to follow any advice you suggest, even if it means going back home to stay with my brother. —Younger Brother

Dear Brother: We're not competent to advise you on this, but we can direct you to a remarkable group that may help you. The group is called Al-Anon and everyone of the group has some friend or loved one who has a drinking problem. Contact your local Alcoholics Anonymous chapter for further details about Al-Anon. It's probably your best chance to help your brother and your parents. —Ele and Walt

Dear Ele: Have you ever heard of a girl getting an engagement bracelet instead of an engagement ring? My girl insists that she wants a jade bracelet instead of the diamond ring I was going to get her. I think everyone would think I was crazy if I gave her a bracelet. What do you think? —Almost Engaged

Dear Almost: It sounds like you're in love with a very independent lass who doesn't follow the crowd. Personally, I've never heard of an engagement bracelet, but if that's what she requested, I say give the lady what she wants. (Some gals would rather not call attention to stubby fingers, but are proud of beautiful wrists.) —Ele

This interests me, readers. Have you ever heard of an engagement bracelet or symbol other than a ring? If so, please tell me about it, and I'll pass it on.

Top Negotiators For Steelmen Called to Talk

By H.L. SCHWARTZ III

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Top negotiators for the United Steelworkers Union were called to a meeting today to decide whether to extend the May 1 basic steel contract deadline, press for day and night bargaining or gear for a strike.

The negotiators met for two hours Tuesday with union President David J. McDonald to consider ways of ending a deadlock in the steel talks. Sources present said the alternatives were boiled down to those three.

There was no real sentiment, sources said, for eliminating any of the union's major economic demands. It is estimated these would cost more than $1 an hour over three years.

Talks have been deadlocked on the industry's refusal to make a counter offer. The industry considers the demands preposterous.

McDonald said nothing specific was decided at the union meeting.

He said the session was called to review progress in top-level negotiations that have involved a 12-man union-industry committee and in company-by-company talks involving 11 major steel producers.

"I just say things are still all over the lot," he said.

McDonald declined to comment on reports that the Labor Department in Washington felt the union was ready to grant a contract extension.

Sources at the meeting said that if there was a consensus it was for marathon bargaining.

However, one source said that "almost anything is possible."

He said there was a possibility the 170-member wage policy committee would be called in next week to vote on an extension. Any action before then was unlikely because of the holiday weekend.

The union has several times refused industry pleas for an extension, saying such talk was premature.

But, as one source pointed out, April 23 and not May 1 could be considered the real deadline. The industry must start by then to plan for a strike and begin closing down the mills if there is no extension.

The industry has pressed for an extension because of the union's bitter election campaign for president between McDonald and I.W. Abel, the union's secretary-treasurer.

The campaign forced a two-month recess in the talks which started last January.

Official election results are not expected for several weeks, although Abel reportedly has won by several thousand votes.

Teen-Age Girls Are Making New Tracks

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — High school track teams never have had the glamour that usually accompanies such sports as basketball and football.

Seven girls from Cubberley high school, however, hope to remedy the problem.

Deciding their services were not needed as cheerleaders, they organized a group known as Girl Track Officials (GTO). They keep time for the runners, measure for jumpers and assist the coaches.

"Their biggest help is that they just look pretty," one high school track star said.

Fears of Strike Are Renewed in Steel Industry

bitter election contest between McDonald and Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel.

Official results of the election are expected soon. Abel is expected to win, but a court fight could result.

Cooper and McDonald spoke at separate news conferences after talks recessed for the Easter weekend.

McDonald said he hoped the industry "would re-examine its conscience." He said the union was prepared to consider any added proposals Monday.

Sources said the union wanted 16 cents an hour and an extension no longer than 45 days.

The industry has said since talks started last January that it would agree to no more than a 2 per cent increase per year in the average steelworker earnings of $4.40 a hour.

Under a one-year limited agreement the industry first suggested earlier this week, this would have figured to slightly less than 10 cents an hour.

The industry's latest proposal called for an extension of the current contract past May 1 and signing of a limited agreement that could be reopened any time after that date with 60 days' notice.

The industry suggested that subcommittees work until July 1, at which time top-level union-industry negotiators would study their recommendations.

The top-level group would have another 60 days to reach agreement before the union could give a 60-day notice. This would have stretched the bargaining out to six months.

Union sources said the money and not the length of the extension was the main point of disagreement.

Before the emphasis shifted this week to talk of an extension, negotiations were deadlocked over the industry's refusal to answer union demands for wage and benefit increases that would cost more than $1 an hour over three years.

Cooper, in his first public comment on the demands, called them "a preposterous assembly of proposals, the result of a massive union force with divided leadership." He said they created an "unbelievable situation."

Planners Deny Printers Home Shopping Proposal

ed Attorney Bernard Trott.

Trott said he represented residents who protested the shopping center zone change at the March 11 meeting of the Commission plus downtown businessmen.

"Union Printers are not keeping their agreement," Trott said. "A year ago the Union Printers Home made a deal with the City Planning Commission, City Council and 500 people" to let the proposed shopping site revert to single family residential and transfer shopping center zoning to the K-Mart corner, Trott said.

"They are trying to make you believe they can put together a city out there," Trott continued. "I don't think they can get 6,000 cars in and out of there much less park them." (The development plan for the 152.7 acres shows parking space for almost 6,000 cars.)

Trott said the proposal was actually to move the downtown core of Colorado Springs to the Union Printers Home.

Robert Hibbard, who said he represented all directors of Downtown Colorado Springs, Inc., blasted the union project as detrimental to the core of the city. "No other developer has ever been given this large a tract" for commercial purposes, he reminded the Commission.

Byron Church, an authority on planning and development, said the new shopping area was unnecessary.

United Western Engineers, at Trott's request, presented the Commission a rough plan for using the entire union tract for residential and commercial use. Trott termed the plan one that "takes into account development already around it."

Attorney Blakemore McCarty said the request for a regional shopping center zone was "not technically" for a regional shopping center. He did not give reasons for his opinion.

McCarty represented Becker-Davis Construction, who said they would build and lease the planned 500,000 - square - foot shopping center.

Commissioner Larry Ochs asked McCarty what portion of the signers of petitions for the zone change had done business with Davis or the Union Printers Home.

"I don't know," McCarty answered.

McCarty said the high rise office buildings shown on the overall development plan would be built "over a 10 - year period."

The attorney said the Printers Home did not want to sell its land, but lease it. "By its nature" it cannot sell it, he said.

Superintendent Patterson agreed, saying, "Please don't ask us to put in residences there. We don't want them."

McCarty said the union had not developed 29 acres of land zoned for shopping center purposes in the K-Mart area. He said that all the banks in the region had signed a petition endorsing the new project and "apparently feel" it will not be detrimental to the downtown area.

Hibbard disagreed, said he was on the board of two area banks and their presidents had never signed the petitions McCarty was talking about.

An engineer hired by Becker - Davis said traffic would "flow very easily" because of the good planning in the overall development layout.

Another issue was dirt still remaining from the K-Mart development. When the City Planning Commission tabled the zone change request March 11, residents complained of blowing dirt heaps near their property lines, on the union land.

McCarty said Thursday that there were still some "unfinished dirt projects . . . a temporary matter."

Sun Devils Record 27th Baseball Win

The Sun Devils shut out the Wyoming team in the first game Thursday, 6-0, raising their win-loss record for the season to 27-3.

ASU started its scoring in the third inning with a double by rightfielder Duffy Dyer that scored two men. Luis Langunas scored another with a sacrifice fly.

In the fourth inning Jim Armstrong hit his fourth roundtripper of the year scoring two more runs and Langunas came through with his second run batted in of the day on another sacrifice fly.

ASU pitcher Jim Merrick now has a season's mark of 6-1. He struck out eight and walked none against Wyoming.

antiaircraft missiles are being built near Hanoi, the capital of North Viet Nam. U.S. sources in Washington said there is no evidence that Soviet missiles are in North Viet Nam, but it was assumed they would be sent once the pads are ready.

Washington officials also assume that Soviet personnel are in charge of the sites.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson returned to London today after talks in Washington with President Johnson on Viet Nam and other issues.

Johnson and Wilson discussed whether a proposed conference on Cambodia could furnish a forum for talks on Viet Nam. Sources in Washington said, however, no decision was reached.

The British feel that if the United States, Red China and North and South Viet Nam attend a conference on Cambodia they might talk informally about Viet Nam and that this could lead to negotiaions.

Tools Valued at $133 Missing From Jeep

Tools valued at $133.40 were taken from a jeep sometime during the past weekend, but the theft wasn't discovered until Tuesday of this week, police reported today.

Lee H. Wilkie, 702 N. 31st St., told police his jeep was parked in the parking lot of the VFW building, 430 E. Pikes Peak Ave., between 9 p.m. April 9 and 1 a.m. Saturday. He said when he came out to get the jeep he found a door window had been broken.

Wilkie said he didn't realize anything was missing until Tuesday, when he went to get some tools from the jeep. Among the missing items were several open-end wrenches, a pair of pliers, two drive sets, and a tackle box and contents.

New CIA Chief Is Facing Reconstruction Problem

organizing a new wave of violent anti-American demonstrations beginning late next month as the prelude to setting up a neutralist regime that would seek a deal with Hanoi's Communist rulers.

Central figures in this conspiracy are Thich Tri Quang, backstage chief of Buddhist dissidents, and General Nguyen Chanh Thi, Buddhist commander of the I Corps in northern South Viet Nam.

While Quang is fomenting the anti-American outbreaks, Thi is credited as getting rid of anti-Buddhist and anti-Communist officers and replacing them with neutralists. Thi, reputedly extremely ambitious, is said to aspire to be the military chief of a "coalition" government that would include Viet Cong.

Quang has a long and dubious record.

In the 1930s he was a pupil of Thich Tri Do, Marxist monk who is now the top Buddhist in North Viet Nam and a member of its Communist parliament. The two renewed their old friendship at a Buddhist conference in Cambodia in 1962, and are known to have been in communication since.

Quang was twice arrested by the French for alleged Communist sympathies, but never tried. During the regime of the late President Diem, former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge saved Quang by giving him refuge in the U.S. embassy.

In the past year, Quang has been the undercover leader of a series of agitations that have upset Siagon governments.

MORE AND BETTER INTELLIGENCE

Also definitely contemplated by Admiral Raborn is intensifying intelligence efforts regarding Red China.

Instead of depending on pilotless drones, the new CIA director favors using an improved version of the U-2 reconnaissance plane to obtain detailed information on key Chinese bases and the disposition of ground and airforces.

Currently, U-2 reconnaissance flights over southern China are banned "for political reasons" at the insistence of the State Department. Raborn wants to change that. How far he gets remains to be seen. His predecessor, John McCone, was unable to persuade the White House to approve such flights.

Similarly, McCone was unable to get anything done about positive CIA information that Soviet ground-to-air missiles were being installed in North Viet Nam.

NEW TREASURY APPOINTEE (?)

Former Representative Joseph Barr, D-Indianapolis, is under consideration for undersecretary of the Treasury. A World War II veteran and friend of newly-appointed Treasury Secretary Fowler, Barr is undergoing the usual security check for a government job. . . Thanks to militant bipartisan opposition, the House Foreign Affairs Committee scuttled a $237 million "sleeper" in the $3.38 billion foreign ad authorization bill prosposed by President Johnson. This unpublicized provision would have permitted the spending of $237 million previously voted by Congress but still unusued. Representative F. Bradford Morse, R-Mass., uncovered the "sleeper" and vigorously challenged it. He was strongly supported by Representative H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, and Wayne Hays, D-O., who moved its deletion. Even Representative Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., a strong administration supporter, raised his eyebrows saying, "This warrants looking into. I don't like it at all." The vote on Hays' motion was unanimous — and that ended this covert attempt to add nearly a quarter of a billion dollars to foreign aid spending.

Rampaging River Pours New Destruction on Land

Many businesses and homes were flooded.

At La Crosse, Wis., the revised crest was listed at 18 feet, 6 feet above flood stage. Some of the lower sections of the city were flooded.

The St. Croix River was seeping through and over a mile-long dike at Stillwater, east of the Twin Cities, and authorities banned all pedestrians and vehicles from the town's main thoroughfares and business section today. Only by special police permit would any citizen be permitted into the area. The town of about 8,000 persons is partly flooded and some 150 families have been evacuated.

The St. Croix at Stillwater stood at 17 feet above flood stage today.

Dozens of highways and many bridges remained closed to travel throughout the state because of high water. A 24-hour watch was in force on many Twin Cities bridges over the Mississippi to prevent ice jams and debris damage.

The Farmers Union grain elevator, holding five million bushels of grain valued at $10 million, was maintaining a crew of 60 workers to hold back the Mississippi at a sandbag and plywood dike.

Snowplows were used at Elk River to remove huge chunks of ice which had been heaved from the Mississippi onto U.S. 10.

An atom-powered electric plant at Elk River was ringed with sandbags to hold back the Mississippi.

The Red River of the North, which flows between Minnesota and North Dakota, continued surging over thousands of acres of farmland in both states. About 125 families have been forced from their homes by high water in the Grand Forks, N.D., area on both sides of the river.

At Valley City, N.D., the Sheyenne River was at 15 feet today, 4 feet above flood stage, and expected to crest late today at 16 feet. Hundreds of volunteers piled sandbags on dikes that held back the river in the city.

The body of 14-year-old Eddie Hearld was found Thursday amidst rubble of Dunlap, Ind., only half a block from where President Johnson had toured the ruins Wednesday. Indiana's death toll of the tornadoes on Palm Sunday was raised to 130 with the death of a woman who had been injured.

A state-by-state summary of the flood situation:

Illinois — National Guardsmen mobilized by Gov. Otto Kerner to patrol levees along the Mississippi River in Henderson County. Illinois Conservation Department officers to patrol dangerous water areas on the Mississippi from East Dubuque to Grafton. Sailors help in tornado cleanup at Crystal Lake as funerals are held for five Palm Sunday victims.

Iowa — Communities along the Mississippi were stepping up preparations against flooding. A state of emergency was declared by the Clinton City Council. Construction of a mile-long two-foot dike along the river front was ordered by Mayor Harold Domsalla. In Keokuk a third industrial plant was closed because of highwater, idling 1,250 workers.

Michigan — Rainfall hampers workers clearing debris and searching damaged areas for lost valuables.

Minnesota — Wettest Easter weekend in the history of the state predicted as higher crests forecast for Mississippi River communities. Level at St. Paul, Hastings and Red Wing already are two to four feet above any previously known stage.

Indiana — The state hardest-hit by tornadoes is getting federal aid and private volunteers to help rebuild devastated sections. The death toll rose to 130 with the finding of boy's body in Dunlap wreckage. A mass ceremony is held in Shipshowana for eight victims.

Wisconsin — More families evacuated in the path of flood waters as Gov. Warren P. Knowles designates eight more counties bordering Mississippi as disaster area.

Ohio — Free transportation to Good Friday and Easter services is offered by the Red Cross for evacuees. Free legal service is offered by the Toledo Bar Association to potential home loan borrowers.

Youth Stabbed In Back: Police Report

A 19-year-old youth was taken to Penrose Hospital Thursday suffering from a knife wound in his back, police reported.

Dick C. McGarry, 19, 1201 Vega Dr., told police he and his companion, Louis Wilson, 18, 317 Orion St., were in Guiseppe's Restaurant Thursday prior to 10 p.m. He said they left and went to Wilson's car, a foreign-made sports convertible, and drove down the alley behind the restaurant.

McGarry said as they were going down the alley there were several men standing in the roadway, and as Wilson drove towards them he slowed down and then stopped. Apparently, both McGarry and Wilson exchanged words with the men standing in the road, and both of them were stuck by the men. They then drove off, and it wasn't until they were out of the alley that McGarry discovered he had been stabbed.

He was taken to Penrose Hospital, and the wound was described as being a puncture on his right back side in the area of the kidney. Dr. Louis Kennedy told police the cut did not penetrate the muscle.

Neither of the boys could identify any of their assailants.

Burglars Get $80 In Cash at Laundry

Burglars escaped with approximately $80 in cash from the Snow White Laundry, 110 S. 25th St., between 6:30 p.m. Wednesday and 6:30 a.m. Thursday, police reported today.

An employe of the laundry told police the intruders pried off the lock hasp on the front door of the laundry to gain entrance. Once inside they pried open two vending machines and stole the money from them, causing $15 damage to them and stealing $5.07 in coins.

The burglars took approximately $75 from an envelope in which collections made by routemen were being kept.

HOUSE TAKES TRIP

JANESVILLE, Wis. (AP) — A porticoed stone house, nearly 125 years old, has survived a shaky experience and is being readied for a new life.

The house, a rare example of temple style Greek revival architecture built before 1842 by an early Wisconsin settler, was moved across town to its new location on the grounds of the Tallman mansion. The stone building will be restored and opened to the public as part of the Lincoln-Tallman Museum which is operated by the Rock County Historical Society.

The Tallman structure, once the home of a leading local family, was a stopping place for Abraham Lincoln when he went into Wisconsin.

Man Faces Third Trial in Murder Case

March 1962, and again Jones received the death penalty. Once more the psychiatrist did not testify as he had been ruled mentally incompetent.

The second conviction was appealed to the Colorado State Supreme Court which ruled Jones must be tried a third time as La Junta Judge William Gobin had tried the case on the penalty and not on the issue of guilt.

On January 1965 jury selection for a third trial got under way, but after questioning more than 200 prospective jurors neither side was able to get a satisfactory jury as the case was too well known in the district.

Judge Gobin called a mistrial and granted a change of venue to Bent County in Las Animas. Defense Attorney Cover Mendenall of Rocky Ford claimed Las Animas was in the same judicial district as La Junta and the supreme court granted his request for a further change of venue outside the district to El Paso County.

According to reports at the time of the incident, Jones was a former bell-hop at the hotel and a friend of the dead man. Early in the morning of Feb. 11 Jones visited the hotel and was given a guided tour of the remodelled premises by Powell.

Finally the pair went back to the desk and Joses is alleged to have taken a hammer from his pocket and struck Powell on the head, and then struck further blows with an 18-inch lead pipe almost tearing off the ear and cracking the skull and exposing the brains.

Jones made a statement to the police admitting to robbery and beating, but defense attorney Mendenall said his client had not been told by the officers that Powell was dead.

Harold Sutton, the owner of the hotel, said he was awakened by bell-boy David Houchen Feb. 11 and went downstairs and found the body.

According to Houchen he was in the lobby during the attack, but Houchen admitted he was mortally afraid of Jones and that during the entire incident he lay on the couch with his eyes closed pretending to be asleep. Houchen said he heard Powell's labored breathing and the rattle of change being taken from the register. It was never determined how much was stolen.

A spokesman from La Junta District Court said Thursday that the files on the case will be mailed to El Paso District Court as soon as the official order is received from the supreme court. The files should arrive in Colorado Springs sometime during the coming week.

OLDEST U.S. SAILING VESSEL

CAMDEN, Me. (AP) — The ship documented as the "oldest pure sailing vessel in merchant service" is the 94 - year-old "Stephen Taber" — built in Glendwood Landing, L.I., in 1871.

The 66-foot windjammer is a rugged ship of 50 tons gross, with a beam of 22 feet, and easily passes Coast Guard inspection every year. Now owned and operated by Capt. Jim Sharp of Camden as a summer cruise ship, it carries 22 passengers and a four-man crew on weekly trips to picturesque harbors and villages, at a rate of $125 per person per week.

Its documentation as the oldest pure sailing vessel — no auxiliary engines — was made by Inspector Richard L. Lewis of the U.S. Customs Service after much research and gradual elimination of other vessels.

NOT JUNK

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The New Mexico Car Wreckers Association wants you to quit referring to their storage facilities as "junk yards." The Association is changing its name to the Automotive Dismantlers Association. Julian Garcia, association president, says members don't "wreck" cars; they acquire wrecked cars, dismantle them and market the usable parts.

Atomic War No Solution, Nuclear Scientist Says

80 per cent of Russia's industry.

China presents a different problem, Dr. Ladd said. Unlike Russia and the U.S., where 45 per cent of the population is urban, China's 740 millions are not clustered in cities. Only a sixth of China's millions are in urban areas.

"We have relied on B52's for nuclear bomb delivery. Each carries two 25 megaton bombs. They could deliver 10,000 megatons, equal to 10 billion tons of TNT or 14 tons for every Chinese.

"The day of the bomber is ending. Our missiles carry one one megaton war heads. This will not produce the most destructive type of fallout. Missiles carring 30 megatons are needed. That is a paramount problem of the 1970's."

Dr. Ladd sketched the costly first "model T" A - bomb War II. Discovery of cheaper and more powerful weapons in the hydrogen bomb could give Red China a chance to hurdle the long and expensive process the U.S. went through, especially if it had access to the technology of some advanced industrial nation such as France.

"We don't have as much time as some in Washington think," he warned. "The nuclear challenge of Red China must be considered serious."

Peaceful application of nuclear power has reached the practical stage, and the explosive force of the atom can be utilized to dig a new Panama Canal using 200 99 per cent clean bombs at a cost under a billion, a fourth of the cost by conventional methods, he said.

The great desert depression in the Arab Republic could be turned into a lake the size of Ontario by nuclear digging of a canal through 40 miles of hills to the Mediterranean.

Dr. Ladd advised Colorado to realize its greatest resource is brain power, and education is the foundation of the modern age. The more Ph.D.'s educated the better off Colorado and the nation will be to cope with the complexities of the future.

"If the federal government paid for the entire education of a Ph.d., it would be economically rewarding," he said. "The Ph.D. would have a higher income. He would pay more income taxes. The government would get back three times what it put into his education."

Author of 10 books and numerous articles, Dr. Ladd is regarded as a pioneer in enlightening the public on the complex scientific problems of the atomic and space ages.

In his talk to the Winter Night Club, Dr. Ladd appealed for public understanding of the scientific revolution in progress. Equally necessary is scientist's role in closing the "awesome gap" between science and the average citizen.

Democracy to survive and function, he believes, must break the barrier between scientific knowledge and public understanding to reach "common decisions for the common good."

"Congressmen, as representatives of the people, were educated two generations ago. On a statistical count, 18 Ph.D.'s should be in Congress. It has one and he is a freshman.

"Congress is exposed to all the developments of modern science. It is called upon to spend one dollar out of six, a total of 15.5 billion, on research and technology. Exposure to scientific data and absorption, however, are two different things.

Dr. Ladd predicted a revolution in biological sciences, even to the extent of altering human intelligence prenatally.

In pleading for public understanding he warned that society must prepare itself "for some real shocks."

Cool and warm colors for the different seasons. Onion skins make poppy flowers and pheasant tail feathers for center pieces in a copper bowl.

Mrs. Stanton is recognized today as one of the country's most expert and successful hostesses. As party editor for House Beautiful she has done hundreds of table settings for color photography and has been responsible for several of House Beautiful covers. Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

All Kinds of 'Hunger'

DEAR ABBY: My husband is one of those big-hearted, generous "treat-the-gang" kind of men who is leading us to the poorhouse. When we go to his family's for dinner, he takes most of the food. When we go with friends, my husband fights for the bill and ends up paying for everything. Not only that, but he tips like a millionaire and he thinks nothing of lending people money when he knows he'll never see it again.

It's nice to be such a big-hearted guy, but we can't afford it. Our children wear rags and I am afraid to answer the phone for fear it's an angry bill collector. I have pleaded with him to let me handle the money, but he never does. What on earth ails a man like mine? —SECURITY HUNGRY

DEAR HUNGRY: Your husband is "hungry," too. Hungry for praise and thanks. He wants desperately to make an impression. His heart may be in the right place, but he is only kidding himself. No one can buy friends. And furthermore, to treat others while one's own family does without is morally wrong. Luxury, as well as charity, should begin at home.

DEAR ABBY: I am 54 and everybody tells me I look 40. I stay in shape by lifting weights and working out with bar bells. I have a boy friend who is 66 and we have been going together for 12 years. I have my own flat and he owns his own house. I go over there almost every day to clean up and keep his clothes in order. Lately he has been pretending that he is so tired at night he can't keep his eyes open when he's with me. But I found out that after I go home he gets dressed up again and goes out to meet girls who are young enough to be his granddaughters. Believe me, he looks his age, and if he didn't have money, no young girl would look at him twice. Do you think he is work keeping? Or should I look for someone else? — KANSAS CITY LADY

DEAR LADY: Your "boy friends" appears to be enjoying his second childhood more than most boys enjoy their first. If he is slipping around behind your back, it's too late to decide whether or not you want to "keep" him. You've lost him. If you want to put up with that kind of foolishness, that's your business. But if you want a one-woman man, he's not it.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps the young people in this community are different from those elsewhere, but it seems as though the girls are always thinking up ways to get the boys to take them out. Their latest trick is to organize a girl-ask-boy party, which I think is all right once in a while, but these girls are overdoing it. My problem is my 15-year-old daughter.

She is quite popular and has her share of dates, but when one of these girl-ask-boy affairs comes up, she always asks a boy who has never asked her to go anywhere with him. I try to tell her that she only makes herself look foolish, and she should ask one of the boys who has asked her out, but she won't listen to me, Abby. She reads your column. Maybe she'll listen to you. If I am wrong about this, please tell me. —MOTHER OF A STUBBORN GIRL

DEAR MOTHER: She probably won't listen to me either, but, even though the temptation is great to get a "new" boy interested by inviting him to a girl-ask-boy party, the wise girl asks a "boy" who has shown enough interest in her to have invited her somewhere.

DEAR ABBY: Some friends of mine told me that back in 1922 they stood up at a wedding where the Justice of the Peace performed the ceremony, and his wife acted as a witness. The Justice of the Peace had St. Vitus' dance so bad that he was unable to read the service from the book, so his wife took the book from his hands and read it for him. When she got to the part where it said, "I NOW PRONOUNCE YOU MAN AND WIFE," she handed the book back to her husband and let him say it. Would you consider this a legal ceremony? —WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Yes, the J.P.'s wife was obviously assisting her husband in his presence and with his approval.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Gals:

I have the most thrilling thing to tell you (and I discovered it quite by accident).

We all have our penny-pinching days. (This means that though we find something that's worth $25.00, we will not spend $2.00 for it.)

We also have our splurging days. (This means that no matter what it costs, we're going to buy it anyway.)

Last week I happened to be on one of those tight-fisted penny-pinching days. Even so, when I saw a dress rack with a sign on it that said "Sale! Bargain! $1.99," I just had to stop and look. I saw dresses up to $20.00 reduced to $1.99! Most of them were cotton.

Also, I noticed that they were large sizes! So I said to myself "I wear a size 12 and most of these are 16's, 18's, 20's and 38's! Now if I took this dress home, I would have to cut it up and completely remake it."

Then, I happened to notice that some of them had pleated skirts! I picked up one dress and lo and behold, it had four yards of gorgeous material in it. Know what I did?

I bought that dress!

I came home, took my scissors and ripped it apart. There was a long zipper (which would cost me at least 60 cents if I had bought it); tape on the hem and all the buttons and trimming!

I ripped the skirt off the dress and made the most adorable house dress from my favorite pattern. I cut off the trim and put it on the pockets of my house dress (after all, what's a house dress without pockets?).

The zipper I did not need, so I saved it for something else. Later I intend to save 60 cents on another dress by using that zipper.

Ladies, always read the ads in your paper and look for the real bargains when you go to town.

Dresses (especially cotton) can be made into children's clothes, shorts, blouses and even men's sport shirts! There is usually enough material if you find a dress that has lots of pleats.

Some designs and fabrics make darling little girls' clothes.

I could not possibly have bought the material in the skirt of that dress for less than $8.00. Now I have a beautiful house dress for practically nothing. Besides, remember that zipper I saved? And those pretty buttons for the next garment?

Don't hesitate to look over that bargain counter when you see a sale. It will pay in the long run and always be sure to watch your ads in the paper for them. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I keep a plastic shoe horn near the sink and find it excellent for scraping stubborn food particles from cooking utensils. —M. E.

Wouldn't a strip of masking or adhesive tape around the corners be simpler? —Heloise

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) — The state recently erected billboards showing a picture of a state trooper and this quotation "It's my job to help you."

Two weeks later a woman telephoned the post here to report she had a library book due at 1 p.m. Would a trooper please rush to her home, pick up the book and deliver it to the library before the deadline?

The dispatcher who took the call was courtesy itself. He told her no one was available just then for that particular kind of help.

Declarer felt called upon to trump his own ace in an effort to score a profit in today's hand.

Although the small slam contract in spades is obviously not a sound undertaking, it should perhaps be pointed out on North and South's behalf that they were afflicted with a strong duplication of values in the diamond suit. Observe that, if South's diamond and heart holdings were reversed, declarer's prospects would be greatly enhanced.

West opened the king of diamonds which was ruffed in the dummy. South saw that he was confronted with a certain spade loser, and neither his holding in hearts nor in clubs was such as to provide him with much comfort. It appeared the declarer's only hope hinged on compelling the opposition to open up one of the side suits for him.

A spade was led to the ace at trick two as both opponents followed suit. South now made the key play of the deal by playing the ace of diamonds and ruffing his good trick in dummy, in preference to taking a discard. A second round of trumps saddled East with the lead.

If East returned either a heart or a club, it would not only result in the surrender of the defense's trick in that suit, but it would enable South to establish a "thirteener" for the discard of his remaining loser. The return of a small heart, for example, would compel West to put up the jack in order to force out North's king. South can now take a successful finesse against East's queen of hearts on the return, clear the suit with his ace and then cross over to dummy to discard a good club on the good ten of hearts.

If East plays a diamond when he is in, South throws either a club or a heart from his hand while he ruffs in dummy. He then cashes the top two honors in the suit from which he has discarded, ruffs the third round and discards his remaining loser on the long card which he has just established.

Observe that, if South fails to ruff the ace of diamonds, choosing instead to shed either a club or a heart from dummy, East can defeat the contract by merely exiting in the suit from which North has discarded. Declarer has no long card to establish and must eventually lose a trick in the other side suit.

In a large bowl sprinkle gelatin over ¼ cup milk. Bring remaining 1¼ cups milk just to a boil; pour over gelatin; stir until the gelatin is completely dissolved; cool for 10 minutes. Stir in the corn syrup. Chill until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Fold in whipped cream and vanilla. Turn into coconut shell. Freeze until firm. THEIR BIG DAY

Pigeons Take Over Central Park Again

CHICAGO (AP) — When word got out that three bunnies were romping on the grass at Grant Park Thursday crowds began to gather, and the park's pampered pigeons became miffed.

A young lady was delivering the rabbits to an advertising agency near the park when she stopped to rest on a bench.

When one of her earrings fell into the cage, she opened the door and out hopped the bunnies.

After allowing them a few nibbles of grass, she popped them back into their cage, the crowd dispersed and the pigeons took over the park again.

BOMBAY — A new industrial zone will be opened in India.

QUICK RECOVERY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Nelson Jones, 24, a detective agency employe, was talking to a friend when he heard the motor of his car parked nearby start up.

Looking up in time to see a man drive off with his car, Jones fired a warning shot in the air. The vehicle was recovered a few minutes later, not far away.

Raccoon Turns Out Lights of City

PALATINE, Ill. (AP) — A raccoon turned the lights out in this suburb of 11,500 northwest of Chicago Thursday night.

The lights went out shortly after 7 p.m. in parts of Palatine and the nearby communities of Hoffman Estates, Barrington, Arlington Heights and Inverness.

It took electric company workers nearly two hours to repair the damage. They said they found the electrocuted raccoon wedged against a heavy, current-carrying metal bar.

Jack Philbin, producer of "The Jackie Gleason Show: The American Scene Magazine," was road manager for the Glenn Miller band 25 years ago.

MOTORING MEMORIES

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — Arthur Jones has the walls of his garage covered with reminders of his more than half a century as a motorist, his license plates dating from 1914 up to the present. Jones, who traveled for 50 years as a salesman for a wholesale hardware firm and is now retired, has had more than 20 cars during that time.

Mrs. ROSEMARIE WHEATLEY

Teacher Honored Here Thursday

Mrs. Rosemarie Wheatley, third grade teacher at Pike Elementary School for the past eight years, has been chosen to receive the Teacher Recognition Award, representing all of the outstanding classroom educators in District 11.

The award will be presented Thursday to Mrs. Wheatley by Robert L. Davis, Assistant Superintendent, Personnel Services, during the spring meeting of the Colorado Springs Education Association at the John Adams Elementary School.

Mrs. Wheatley has served as a building representative for the professional organizations and building representative for District 11 Federal Credit Union since 1960. She has served on the Curriculum Planning Committee and has helped revise the third grade Social Studies Guide.

Mrs. Wheatley has been active in the Pikes Peak Chapter of the Association for Childhood Education International, having served as program chairman for two years, vice-president for one year, and has been president of the organization for the past two years. She was elected as delegate to the International Workshop of the A.C.E. held in Miami Beach in 1963.

She was born near Valley Falls, Kan., and attended grade and high school there. She attended Washburn University in Topeka, Kan., for two years and taught in Gypsum, Kan., four years.

She is married, and has two daughters. She resumed her education at Colorado College and graduated in 1957.

Olin Burton Died Thursday At Denver

B. Olin Burton, retired member of the Colorado Springs Police Department, who was shot in the gun battle in which Danny Daniels, notorious criminal was arrested as he was attempting to rob the Buckwald jewelry store, in 1927, died Thursday night at the Veterans Hospital in Denver. He was taken there earlier Thursday for treatment of an old chronic ailment. Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but burial will probably be in San Francisco, Calif.

Burton was a patrolman on the Police Department and was one of those who on Sept. 28, 1927, participated in the arrest of Daniels, who had barricaded himself in the jewelry store he and others were attempting to rob nad shot it out with the police. Burton was shot in one arm. Daniels was arrested and tried in the District Court here and sentenced to a term in the State Penitentiary in Canon City.

There he was leader in the most sensational break the penitentiary has ever had. He and others associated with him in the attempted break, killed several of the penitentiary guards that had been taken hostages and carried on a long gun battle with police and other peace officers who had surrounded the prison. An attempt was being made to carry dynamite to the outside prison wall for a blast when Daniels died of a self-inflicted shot. It was in this gun battle at the penitentiary that Robert Wraith, now retired Colorado Springs police captain, was shot.

Mr. Burton resided at 724 W. Bijou St. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Pearl Burton, of Colorado Springs, and a daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Harris, of Moberly, Mo.

The Olinger Mortuary, of Denver, has charge of funeral arrangements.

Pro Begger Gets Jail Term Here

A 59-year-old man, on trial Thursday in Municipal Court for vagrancy, said he didn't work, he begged.

Patrolman John Donohoo had earlier testified he observed the white haired and bearded man, Tom O'Bedlam of New York City, near Murray Drug Co. "mooching" money from passersby.

"Do you bother the Red Cross and the Salvation Army when they go around begging?" O'Bedlam asked the officer.

Turning to Judge Allan Asher, O'Bedlam said: "I don't do anything as a professional beggar that the Red Cross and the Salvation Army doesn't do; only they ask for hundreds of thousands of dollars and I just ask for pennies."

"Are you elected?" he asked. Before Judge Asher could reply, O'Bedlam said, "then you go around begging for votes."

Judge Asher noted that people who solicit votes and are elected then have to work. "That's what they should do," O'Bedlam countered. "I'm not elected," the judge retorted, "so I don't beg for votes."

He also noted that the organizations O'Bedlam mentioned were "a little less selfish" than the defendant as they dispense the money to the unfortunate. O'Bedlam said he dispensed "charity" himself when he had more money than he needed and saw "an outstretched hand."

"Do you work at anything?" Judge Asher, asked. O'Bedlam said no, he "begged for alms" to take care of his needs.

"Charities rely on the unselfish attitudes of people," Judge Asher said, and found O'Bedlam guilty and sentenced him to 30 days in City Jail.

West Side Club Will Sponsor Easter Egg Hunt

The West Colorado Springs Commercial Club will sponsor an Easter Egg Hunt at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in Bancroft Park.

Children from diaper age to 11 years are invited to this annual event. Pre-school youngsters will be segregated in order to give them a chance with the many prizes West Side merchants will provide. Seven thousand candy eggs will be distributed.

Club members and a policeman in uniform will be on hand to keep order.

Mrs. Schuyler Died Thursday

Mrs. Carrie W. Schuyler, 93, of 611 N. Cedar St., mother of Gazette Telegraph Librarian Ruth Erwin, died Thursday afternoon in a local hospital.

Born July 26, 1871 to W. Frank Walker and Hannah B. (Snow) Walker in Bedford, Iowa, Mrs. Schuyler leaves no other survivors.

Services are scheduled in Law Mortuary at 2 p.m. Monday with the Rev. Marie Carol Guental of Unity Church officiating. Cremation will follow.

MRS. CARRIE W. SCHUYLER

Mrs. Schuyler lived with her daughter since 1934 when she moved to Colorado Springs. Mrs. Schuyler has lived here since 1934 with the exception of 3½ years in Denver.

She taught music for more than 20 years. Mrs. Schuyler was a past matron of the Order of the Eastern Star.

TEACHING CAREER DISCUSSED — A retired elementary teacher and two present teachers were among those appearing on a career guidance program at West Junior High School. Two students, Karen Buis and Rick Nelson are shown getting information from (left to right) Miss Elma Hendricks, who has retired; Miss Kay Thompson, first grade teacher, and Keith Kipp, sixth grade teacher, of Bristol School.

County Board Approves Six Petitions, Appeals Friday

The El Paso County Board of Adjustment approved six petitions and appeals, denied three and tabled another in a public hearing Thursday in the County Office Building auditorium.

Appeals granted by the board were:

Petition of Mrs. Vechtan for permission to construct a tool shed to an existing non-conforming garage in an R Residential District located at 14 Lake Ave., Broadmoor. Appeal was allowed on stipulation that shed be attached to garage by roof structure.

Petition of Joseph Bordenelli for permission to construct an open, covered porch to an existing dwelling in an R-1 Residential District located at 415 W. Cheyenne Rd.

Petition of Jesse Butler for permission to construct an addition and a garage to an existing non-conforming dwelling in a C-2 Suburban Business District located at 629 Prairie Rd. Appeal was granted on grounds that plans and construction are to be 12.5 feet from the property line.

Petition of George F. Marget for permission to construct a covered patio in an R-2 Residential District located at 406 Grande Blvd. Appeal allowed stipulating that sides of patio remain open.

Petition of Paragon Homes, Inc. for permission to construct a one-family dwelling with attached garage in an R Residential District located on Stratton Street.

Petition of Hamilton Enterprises, Inc. for permission to construct a one-family dwelling with basement in an R-1 Residential District located on Cheyenne Road.

Denied by adjustors were:

Two petitions of Hamilton Enterprises, Inc. Both requested permission to construct two-family dwellings in an R-1 Residential District on Terrace Drive, Sommerlyn Hills Subdivision. Appeals were denied on grounds that structures were too large for lot sizes.

Petition of Gary Zien for permission to construct a detached private garage in an R-1 Residential District located at 1215 Falcon Ave. If granted, construction would lead to nonconformity with zoning requirements, adjustors said.

The petition and appeal of Mrs. Mae Henderson for permission to construct an addition to an existing non-conforming dwelling in an R-1 Residential District located at 138 Easy St. was tabled. Mrs. Henderson did not appear at the hearing.

Career Teaching Discussed at School Seminar

Teaching as a career was the program for the ninth grade students at West Junior High School in a discussion seminar held there recently.

In the auditorium, Eugene Hertzke, Robert Miller and Mrs. Joyce White spoke to those students who expressed an interest in teaching at the junior and senior high school level.

Miss Kay Thompson discussed teaching in the primary grades and kindergarten with students in the cafeteria.

Keith Kipp and Miss Elma Mendricks discussed training and opportunities for intermediate teaching.

In order to stimulate ninth grade students to give more thought to their career for the future, West Junior High School has invited people from various occupations to come in and talk to them.

Aptitude tests are given to ninth grade students in Civic Courses, to show their range of personal interests. One career is selected by each student and he makes a detailed study of that career, followed by an oral report to his classmates.

During the second semester of the school year, the ninth graders have heard talks from Dr. Millard Schafer, who spoke on opportunities in public health; Al Marwick, who spoke on training to be auto mechanics; Francis Timple, who spoke to the female students on various fields in nursing; T Sgt. Bruce Adams and Chief McClellan talked to all ninth grade students regarding opportunities and requirements in the military fields; Mrs. Jean Frazier, who spoke on opportunities in the business world; Mrs. Than Lundquist, who discussed modeling for girls as a career; Kenneth Wood, who talked to the boys about United States Forest Service; Thomas Brown, who spoke on cosmotology; William Hendricks, who talked about various opportunities in electronics; Gordon Ingraham, who talked about architecture; and Douglas Jardine, Jr., who discussed engineering and the training needed.

These ninth grade students met every Monday during the year to discuss the programs with Mrs. Maxine Carpenter, chairman of the school assemblies: Dan Masias, Charles Brockhauser, Cathy Ingraham, Rick Nelson, Lois Weaver, Karen Buis, Hays Griswold, Louis Wright, Gretchen Henninger, Jeanne Axtell, Carol Long, Karen Buis, Patricia Gilmore, and Larry Lambert.

Security Residents See Project Display for Proposed Complex

By DAVE OSBORN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

"It's real pretty. I hope we get it," said one resident. "We could sure use something like that," said another. They were talking about Security's proposed Park and Community Center Complex, on display for the last time publicly Thursday night, just four days before election day, Tuesday.

Park and Recreation District board members, along with architects Walt Weber and Sherwood Ritz, were on hand Thursday to explain the proposed Community Center for the last time publicly. The meeting was held in Widefield High School's multi-purpose room.

Because of the meager voter turnout for the complex's last showing, district board members expressed confidence in the easy passage of the $300,000 bond issue which goes before Security's voters Tuesday. The turnout last night, however, did surpass the two voters who were present a few days ago for an identical meeting in South Security.

Due to the small number at the meeting, the proposed complex was explained individually to each one who attended and the huge majority appeared very much in favor of the bond issue. In fact, during the past few months of public presentations very few have expressed any opposition to the plan.

The proposed complex is slated to include a community center, library, teen center, indoor swimming pool and outdoor wading pool with a large sun-deck.

Financing of the $300,000 bond issue will not increase property taxes in Security, probably the biggest reason for the lack of opposition. At present, the Park and Recreation District's levy of four mills is said to be more than enough to cover payments for the complex. In past months, since the levy was raised from two to four mills, the additional new mills had been used for new buildings and improvements anyway. Park and Recreation District officials believe these same two mills can now be used to finance the complex.

Upkeep and any improvements needed in the future will be handled out of admissions paid to use the complex.

Security's Public Library, slated to cover 6,800 feet of the complex, will also aid in financing the proposal. Its funds come from the District 3 School Board and in turn it will pay the Park and Recreation District each month for its leased space in the complex.

Admission rates and rental charges will more than cover upkeep and janitorial services in the complex, according to Paul Morris, superintendent of the Park and Recreation District.

Tabulation of Tuesday's paper ballots will be done manually by three voting judges. The polls at the present Security Public Library, will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. The vote tally should be complete by 8 p.m. Only "taxpayer electors" of Security's Park and Recreation District are allowed to vote in Tuesday's election.

300 Expected For Public Health Meeting

Some 300 persons are expected to attend the 28th annual meeting of the Colorado Public Health Association scheduled Tuesday through Thursday in the Broadmoor Hotel.

Dr. Porterfield will speak during a noon luncheon Tuesday in the Broadmoor.

Dr. R. Samuel Johnson, director of public health, Denver, will speak on "What's Wrong with Public Health in Colorado" at 2 p.m.

Featured speakers Wednesday include: Dr. Richard N. Collins of the U.S. Public Health Service Communicable Disease Center, Atlanta, Ga. Dr. Collins will discuss "Salmonellosis, an Overview of the Problem."

Salmonellosis is sometimes a fatal infection usually spread by contaminated food and will be the topic of discussion by four speakers Wednesday morning. Dr. Collins will speak at 10:20 a.m.

Dr. Roger S. Mitchell of the Webb - Waring Institute, Denver, will discuss "Behind the Smoke Screen" at 9 a.m. Thursday. Following his talk will be Dr. Horace E. Campbell of Denver, chairman of the "Traffic and Auto Safety, Challenge to Public Health."

Dr. Bernard Valdez, Denver manager of welfare, will discuss "The War on Poverty, A New Tool for Public Health" at 10 a.m.

CC Teams Slated For Busy Weekend

Colorado College opens a busy sports weekend this afternoon when the Tigers host Colorado State College at Memorial Park in the first of a two-game weekend set.

Coach Bob Johnson has scheduled freshman Craig Clayberg, a star off last year's Denver Lincoln club, as the starter for the local club. The Tigers, 3-6 on the campaign thus far, will be attempting to upset a club that is annually one of the best in the region.

Following this afternoon's contest, the two teams will meet again at Greeley Saturday at 2 p.m. Game time today is 3 p.m.

Meanwhile, the Colorado College track team will make its second local appearance in a quadrangular meet with three of the area's better teams Saturday. The Tigers of Coach Frank Flood will play host to Colorado State University of Fort Collins, Denver University, and Southern Colorado State of Pueblo. Starting time for that event will be 1 p.m.

The CC runners were downed in their first home appearance seniors Ed Loosli, an outstanding hurdler, distance man Tony McGinnis, and freshman Lance Clark should help the local squad to a strong showing Saturday.

The CC baseball team will be trying for a long-sought upending of the Colorado State Bears, perennial champions of the Rocky Mountain Conference of which CC was a member until last fall. The Tigers, who posted their first winning season in some time a year ago, indicat- whipping Southern Colorado State at Pueblo Tuesday. The Pueblo club had split twin bills with both Wyoming University and the Air Force Academy the previous two weekends.

Johnson has obviously set his sights on the Bears as a prestige-building victim for the Tigers. Clayberg, who has limited experience as a collegian, has nevertheless fanned 18 in 17 innings this spring and has walked just three. He has an 0-1 record to go with his 4.76 earned run average.

Senior catcher Roger Williams is leading the regular players at the plate. The powerful Tiger standout has cracked out nine hits in 29 trips for a .336 average. Other top hitters are Dave Peterson at .344, Chuck Reinking at .287 and Dee Wilson at .275. Jeff Sauer, who has made three of his five appearances as a pitcher, has the best overall average with three hits in eight trips for a .375 mark.

Argentine Boxer in Accident, Not Hurt

MAR DEL PLATA, Argentina (AP) — Oscar Bonavenua, Argentine's heavyweight boxing contender, escaped injury in an auto accident Thursday night. His Fiat-100 skidded on a wet road, rolled down an embankment and overturned.

Bonavenua is well known in the United States. He had a seven-bout winning streak ended by Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., in New York's Madison Square Garden earlier this year.

Merc's exclusive Jet-Prop exhaust improves engine breathing, increases thrust and reduces underwater drag. Fumes and noise are buried far behind the boat. Mercs have no shear pins to fail . . . a live-rubber safety clutch protects the prop on impact. All Mercurys have full gearshift . . . forward, neutral, reverse.

Merc's tilted powerhead and internal bleed system eliminates misfiring and spark plug fouling. Fixed-jet carburetors need no adjustment, let you go further, faster, on less fuel.

BETWEEN THE LINES

by Loy Holman

Two Games Away

Over the past few days, Bob Johnson has been wrapped up in getting a line on his baseball team, and especially the key meeting this afternoon with the yearly rulers of the region.

Johnson's Tigers at Colorado College take on Pete Butler's Bears of Colorado State College in a local game today and then they resume play at Greeley this Saturday. CSC, league champion in the Rocky Mountain Conference for the last 22 straight seasons, beat out the Bengals last year but the CC coach feels that the years of dominance may be near an end.

Despite losing to the Bears, Johnson was selected "Coach of the Year" for this district . . . in his first season with the baseball team. The reason was obvious. For too long the sport was merely something to giggle about with fantastic scores that resembled football more than anything else, and the won-lost records of the Tigers were nearly as funny as the comics on the field.

BOB JOHNSON
Likes the Idea

So much for the immediate future. But Johnson, who has suddenly brought seriousness to at least a couple athletic activities on the Tejon St. campus, has been forced to divide his interests over the last few weeks.

While his baseball team was dodging snowflakes during the belated arrival of spring in the Springs, taking a few cuts at tennis balls in antiquated Cossitt Hall, and then at last leaving for the season's openers in the southland, the coach was busy with leftovers from his winter attentions.

Besides directing the Tigers in baseball, Johnson's main interest lies in fielding a hockey team in the strongest collegiate circuit in the land. This is close to a year-round occupation for most coaches, so it's excusable when he leaves the baseball team in charge of another for a few days.

It's not often that a coach is forced to desert his squad in the midst of a road trip. But in the case of a recent journey through New Mexico, the importance of Johnson's presence elsewhere was justified.

It so happened that the meeting of coaches and athletic directors of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association in Chicago was one of the most important in the history of the league. Moves were made that keep the loop as tops in the country.

Here's what happened:

1. Duluth Branch of Minnesota U. was finally admitted to the WCHA, bringing the membership to eight. Duluth has been on the verge of coming into the league for some time, and at last made it official. Over the past couple seasons they have played more WCHA teams than many of the members, and have generally held their own. They should be a representative team.

2. The regular league title will be decided on the basis of won-lost records during the campaign, instead of the symbolic MacNaughton Cup going to the winner of a playoff between the top four clubs.

3. All teams must dress a spare goalie for each league game. This is to conserve time in case the starting goalie is injured or has to be replaced for any other reason.

4. The league will go back to the old system of two referees and no linesmen, instead of one ref and two local linesmen as used the last couple years. One referee will still be on a traveling basis, assigned by the WCHA and not a local product where it can be managed, but the other will come from the game's area because of expenses involved. It's generally conceded that this should give better coverage on infractions.

5. And this was the big one. This next season the WCHA will be divided into East and West divisions for playoff purposes, and all eight teams will participate in the playoffs regardless of the finish in the regular season's standings. In the past the playoffs only involved the top four clubs with first and second place teams getting the home ice.

For the next two seasons the West will see Denver and Colorado College playing in one match and Minnesota plays North Dakota in another one-game affair. In the East, Michigan Tech plays Duluth, and Michigan State meets Michigan University. Winners of these first games play a second game, and the winner there qualifies for the NCAA playoffs.

Naturally, with any change as drastic as this new playoff plan is, there is bound to be some controversy and a few dissenters. But, as a whole, the league's coaches seem to back the setup — at least on a trial basis.

"I think it really gives every team something to look forward to and to work for," Johnson said this week. "I can tell my players they are only two games away from the national tournament right now, and they feel they have just as good a chance as anybody else."

As Johnson explains it, it's too easy under the old system for a team to be eliminated from the playoffs before the season is hardly underway. But now they won't be counted out until losing in the playoffs.

The main argument against the new plan is that it virtually strips the regular season of importance. But the CC coach has an answer for that, too.

"The regular season will still be important to every team for development both individually and as a team," Johnson said. "And that's what we're all trying to do, anyway. We feel that the better team will still come out on top in the playoffs and will represent the league best in the NCAA tourney.

"But, take last season for instance, any team in the league could have done well in the national tournament. We certainly proved that. Although CC was at the bottom of the league standings, we still beat both the Eastern teams entered in the NCAA . . . and one of those teams from the East beat North Dakota, our league champion."

What seems most important at this point, however, is the fact that the change in the playoff format appears to have brought back at least some harmony between the WCHA coaches. This was the reaction from most observers at the Chicago meeting.

With one exception (and that's a personality clash), all teams will be playing each other. — and that hasn't happened over the past two seasons. There was also less difficulty in making out a schedule in that with less pressure on each regular season game there was no

NEW YORK (AP) — Life is like this with the New York Mets.

Houston is in town and you've finally got a chance to win one. In the second inning you make a triple play, like the real professionals. Everybody agrees with Casey Stengel. You're really amazin'.

Then you blow a 4-2 lead with two out and nobody on in the ninth. A base on balls and some guy named Jim Wynn hits the ball out of the park.

The kids who were bunched around the cops and ushers with their trumpets and banners look a little sheepish. It's cold and a chilly rain is slating down through the lights and splashing on top of the dugouts. Two boys in dungarees huddle under an "Ed Kranepool for President" sign.

In the top of the 10th, Casey decides to risk it all with a starry-eyed 18-year-old pitcher. His name is Jim Bethke and last year at this time he was wrestling with algebra at Northeast High School in Kansas City.

Bethke gets them out with one of those peculiar doubleplays when Claude Raymond, the Houston pitcher, overruns third base. It is raining so hard when you come up the umps can't possibly let it go another inning.

Bobby Klaus is your leadoff man. Raymond takes him to 3-2 and then comes down the pike with a fast ball. Bobby swings and there she goes.

The ball is just barely fair, slamming off the foul screen in left. Tony Venzon, the third base ump, gives it that circular motion with his hand that means home run.

The Mets actually have won a ball game, 5-4. And it's only the third game of the season . . . a record. In 1962 you lost the first nine. In 1963 the first eight. And last year the first four.

In the clubhouse there is a tight little knot in front of Bethke's locker.

"I still don't believe it," the kid was saying. "As soon as I get back to the hotel I'm going to call my parents. I want to be sure everybody is home. My dad is an engineer on the Missouri Pacific. Mostly he is in the yards but sometimes he makes the run to Omaha or St. Joe."

Klaus was talking about the blow that broke the Mets' tiny, little personal record.

"I didn't think it had a chance of going fair," he said. "When I saw the ump give the sign it felt good. It's such a struggle to get that first one."

In the manager's office, Stengel had posed with one finger high for win No. 1 and with three fingers up for the triple play.

"It would have been terrible to lose another, especially when you had two out. That fellow (Johnny Lewis) in right field made a wonderful play on that triple play. A beautiful throw."

And what kind of a play was it Casey? "Amazin'. Just amazin' for my Youth of America."

Tribe, Birds Seek to Crowd Top

The top rungs on the South Central League ladder could be filled by both Colorado Springs schools after Saturday, if Palmer and Wasson fans get their weekend wishes.

Palmer, second-ranked team in the state and undefeated in eight season starts, hosts defending SCL champion Centennial Saturday at 10 a.m. in Memorial Park. Wasson travels to meet Pueblo East Saturday morning. In the other SCL game, Central and South play.

If Palmer stops Centennial, the Terrors will stand alone atop the league standings with a perfect 6-0 first round mark. Wasson, assuming a victory over the cellar-dwelling Eagles, will gain a tie for second with Centennial.

The Pueblo Bulldogs have shown a hard-hitting attack, their latest victory a 20-1 squashing of Pueblo Catholic. Palmer's hitting has improved tremendously over the last 14 innings, but its main strength is its pitching. Tom Medlicott, senior left-hander, is due to start for the Tribe. He defeated Wasson in Palmer's only appearance in Memorial Park this year, striking out 18 Thunderbirds.

Wasson has a strong-hitting team of its own, evidenced by this week's 14-3 triumph over South's Colts. East has been squelched thus far but could produce some solid hits against a team which was looking for an easy victory.

Palmer rode the nine-strikeout, two-hit performance of Phil Johnson to victory over the Eagles Wednesday. The Terrors broke loose for six hits and half a dozen runs in the first inning and sailed home with little trouble.

Saturday's game will mark the first appearance of Palmer as home team. The Tribe has taken its first eight victories as visitor. Palmer will be home team throughout the rest of the season, until May 11 when it travels to play Centennial in the final regular season game.

The Terrors were selected to the first Denver Post baseball poll's second spot this week, behind Denver Prep leader Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson's only loss was a 2-1 eight-inning affair to Palmer.

Wasson smashed South with nine first-inning runs Tuesday to take its third league win and fifth season victory. The Thunderbirds followed that win with a 4-3 squeaker over Cheyenne Mountain, in which Steve Herzberg and Rich Wadlow hit back-to-back home runs in the sixth inning.

Herzberg's blow was a wrong-field smash to distant left field in Memorial Park.

CSU Suspends Sonny Bustion For One Year

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) —Sonny Bustion, Colorado State University basketball center, was out of school today on a one-year suspension for "disciplinary reasons."

CSU President W. E. Morgan did not elaborate on the suspension.

The 6-foot-7 Bustion, starting center for the past two years, had averaged 17.4 points a game and was second only to Lonnie Wright, with a 19.7 average, in scoring.

A junior, Bustion has one more year of eligibility.

NEW STANDARD—A new pennant was added to the decorations for opening day Thursday at Milwaukee County Stadium as the Braves began their final season before moving to Atlanta. In the hubbub of a three-run Milwaukee scoring burst in the third inning, a fan stood in the grandstand and waved a Confederate flag. Identifying himself as Jack Stelzer of Milwaukee, a Braves fan who sometimes bought as many as 1,600 tickets a season for his tavern group, the flag-waver said he was "just trying to have some fun." The Braves beat the Chicago Cubs, 5-1, before 33,874.

BIG HAND FOR SADOWSKI — Wearing a victory smile, Milwaukee pitcher Bob Sadowski gets a big handshake in the clubhouse after beating the Chicago Cubs, 5-1, Thursday in the opener at Milwaukee County Stadium. The Braves' righthander allowed only four hits.

Milwauke Fans Cheer For Atlanta-Bound Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Except for the weather, the script was perfect. A noisy crowd of 33,874 had plenty to cheer in welcoming Milwaukee's Atlanta-bound Braves for a 13th and final season at County Stadium.

It was 'Stand Up for Milwaukee Day'' and the fans turned out despite overcast, 52-degree weather Thursday. The Braves responded by launching their home baseball campaign with a 5-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs as right-hander Bob Sadowski fired a nifty four-hitter.

"This is a great day from all aspects," Milwaukee Manager Bobby Bragan said. "The crowd was great, Sadowski was great, we made some great plays in the field and we won. Everything was just perfect."

Bitterness was forgotten as the fans rallied to the call of Teams, Inc., which hopes to lure another major league club to Milwaukee after the Braves' move south next year. Teams, a civic group, bought out the stadium for $35,000 and needed only 26,000 paid fans to break even.

"Teams, Inc., has a special thanks for the greatest baseball fans in all America," the crowd was told late in the game. "Your turnout today indicates that Milwaukee is major league all the way."

Many of the Braves were concerned about what sort of reception they would receive. The fans, however, who turned out nearly 19 million strong in the previous 12 years, gave the players a hearty welcome.

"It was really something," said third baseman Eddie Mathews, the only remaining member of the 1953 Braves who moved from Boston to Milwaukee. "The cheers gave us all a big boost. It was amazing — a fine tribute to Milwaukee and all the fans."

Hank Aaron, the slugging outfielder who missed his first Milwaukee opener since 1955 because of recent ankle surgery, wasn't surprised by the fans' reaction.

"I've said right along that if you give Milwaukee fans something to see they'll come out to the park," Aaron said. "I don't think the people blame the players for anything that's happened. We've got a job to do and we'll do it wherever we are."

Despite the chilly, damp weather, more than 10,000 fans purchased tickets just before the game. The advance sale had been about 23,000.

Ernie Banks, the Cubs' veteran slugger who spoiled Sadowski's bid for a shutout with his second homer of the season and No. 378 of his career, glanced at the stands and remarked:

"And they say this isn't a major league city? Look at that crowd, coming out to see a team that won't be here next season."

Harrison Clicks, Downs Canon City

CANON CITY — After succumbing to Air Academy High last Tuesday, Ransom Weber's young Panthers struck for 12 hits against the Canon City Tigers here Thursday to record their sixth over-all victory as Harrison triumphed 13-0.

Sophomore ace chucker Bill Johnson, who was tagged hard against Academy High, found the range Thursday as the strapping right-hander shutout the Canon City batsmen during the seven-inning affair.

For Canon City, Dan Scavarda took the loss. He was relieved by Dee Betts in the fifth inning and Dave Eslick took over the mound duties in the sixth frame.

In addition to his pitching chores, Johnson also collected one hit and drove in two runs. But it was shortstop Bill Doud's hot bat which sparked the 12-hit barrage when he tallied three hits in four trips to the plate.

Harrison is now 3-1 in Will Rogers League competition while the Panthers have compiled a 6-1 won-loss overall mark. Canon City is 1-3 in WRL play and 4-4 in overall competition.

Big Weekend Set at Academy

A big weekend for all spring teams at the Air Force Academy — and especially for the Falcon track squad — is on tap with most all the action scheduled for the AFA campus. Trying to get back on the winning side of the ledger after dropping their sixth in eight games last Wednesday, the Academy baseball team will see double duty in a 1 p.m. twin bill against Colorado State University. The Falcons are fresh from an 8-2 loss to Denver, but could recuperate against the Aggies.

In other action, the spring football practice continues with Coach Ben Martin's squad slated for a scrimmage session this Saturday, the tennis team was to entertain Wyoming this afternoon and meet New Mexico State on Monday, and the golf team is the lone traveler for the immediate future with a match at Denver University next Tuesday.

But the highlight of the entire slate will be the track team's meet with powerful Occidental College from California this Saturday. This 1:30 p.m. affair is one of only two home meets for the Falcons this season, but it could be one of the top attractions of the entire spring.

Occidental has several outstand individuals who should put on quite a show for the fans. In fact, the visiting Bengals will threaten AFA track records in the pole vault, broad jump, mile run, half-mile and the 330-yard medium hurdles.

One of the top stars from Occidental is vaulter Mike Graves, who has cleared 16-4 this year. Dave Appleton and Wayne Seiness have each made 24-1 leaps in the broad jump, and three Tiger milers have been clocked in 4:13.0 and they could blanket the finish in this race which has usually been dominated by AFA runners.

Others coming in Saturday will be Dave Brown who has a swift :7.30 timing in the quarter, and John Peck with a 1:53.1 in the 880 run. The intermediate hurdles should go to Occidental Vance Peterson who has skimmed the barriers in the fine time of :36.4 to rate among the best in the nation.

To make things even worse for the Falcons, however, they will again be without the services of ace distance man Jim Murphy, now considered out for the rest of the season. The Academy's All - America and NCAA record holder for the three-mile has been hampered by an ankle injury since early in the indoor season.

Still, Coach Arne Arnesen feels that his Cadets will be able to give the California invaders a run for it in the total team score. He's counting on the AFA's depth and the promising performances of a few Falcons in the early meets of the winter season.

Arnesen will look to team captain Bob Lambert for a strong showing in the high jump and javelin, Dave Dick in the high hurdles, Ken Clark in the shot put and Henry Hamby in the discus. They will be underdogs for first place, but Dale Stovall and Doug Withers could pick up points in the 440, Jesse Neyman in the mile, and Tad Oelstrom and Jim Lawson in the half-mile.

Besides the loss of Murphy the Falcons will also be without hurdler John Puster and javelin ace Gil Mook who are out with injuries.

The only other home meet for the AFA will come May 1 against Iowa State University of the Big Eight. Scheduling difficulties have hampered the Falcons track season.

In the double header in baseball, slated for a 1 p.m. start and just a few yards away from the track meet for those who would like to take in both events, the Falcons probably will go with their one-two punch of Al McClure and Dick Guido on the mound. Both worked in Wednesday's loss to Denver, but probably will have to come back Saturday in that there is an acute shortage of pitchers at the AFA.

Colorado State was also a recent victim of DU's sudden surge in baseball, losing three to the Pioneers last week. The Aggies have been paced by former Colorado Springs' star, Darrell Greene, who set several records with his bat while at Wasson High. Greene is hitting at a .313 clip and leads the regulars.

Sophomores Tom Manninen and Don Pitchford probably will hurl for CSU.

Title Bout To Be Shown At Chief

The closed circuit telecast of the World Heavyweight Championship fight between titlist Cassius Clay and former champion Charles (Sonny) Liston of Denver will be shown at the Chief Theater in Colorado Springs.

The fight is scheduled for the evening of Tuesday, May 25, and will be telecast live from Boston.

Clay and Liston were scheduled for a re-match from their controversial first meeting last fall, but Clay was forced to postpone the fight because of a hernia operation at the last minute. Liston has been training at Denver ever since, and hopes to regain the title lost in their bout at Miami in which Liston suffered a freak shoulder injury and was unable to continue.

All seats in the Chief Theater will be reserved for this telecast. Mail order reservations may be made to the Chief Theater. There will be no home teevee of the fight. Box office tickets will go on sale at a later date.

Entries Pour in for Indianapolis '500' Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Fifty-seven cars were registered at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway today for the 500-mile race May 31.

Officials expect to accept several more entries arriving in the next few days and postmarked before the Thursday midnight deadline.

Six cars were entered late Thursday, and the nominations of rookies Mel Kenyon of Davenport, Iowa, and Ralph Liguori, Tampa, Fla. to pilot two of them brought the number of new drivers in the field to 13.

Liguori will attempt to qualify an Offenhauser road-ster for Norm Demler, Niagara Falls, N.Y. Kenyon will go in a federal engineering Offenhauser roadster owned by Dan Levine, Detroit.

Auerbach Lost Voice On Havlicek's Ball Theft

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — "I couldn't believe it when Johnny Havlicek got that ball. I couldn't believe it. I lost my voice."

Thus did Boston Coach Red Auerbach, caloused veteran of 19 years in the National Basketball Association, describe the 110-109 victory over Philadelphia Thursday night which gave his Celtics a ninth straight Eastern Division playoff crown.

Havlicek's interception of a pass-in for what was to be Philadelphia's winning basket and a guide wire supporting the temporary basket were the features of a high basketball drama.

Boston, which opens the title series here against Los Angeles Sunday afternoon and Monday night in quest of a seventh world championship in a row, never had it tougher.

Auerbach called it "one of the greatest victories I've ever had because Philadelphia was a great team."

The Celtics were emotionally drained and could not bring themselves to look ahead to the Lakers. They generally agreed the five seconds before the final buzzer were the longest of their lives.

Here's how it happened.

Boston led 110-107 when Sam Jones, game high scorer with 37 points, misread the clock and the 24 second limit ran out. The Celtics let Wilt Chamberlain go to the basket uncontested for his 30th point, a dunk.

There were five seconds left.

Boston Capt. Bill Russell, forgetting himself, took the ball out of bounds, jumped in the air to launch his pass-in and saw it carom back out of bounds off the guide wire.

Philadelphia, with possession, tokk time out, set up a play — and then Havlicek pilfered Hal Greer's pass-in.

"Sam Jones is a great player, he knows what to do with the ball," said Philadelphia Coach Dolph Schayes. "But Havlicek won the game for them. He made the key shots and then made the steal.

"As soon as Greer let the ball go I knew it would be intercepted."

"When the ball hit the wire, that wasn't a break, it's just part of the game," said Chamberlain. "Russell froze. Then we made the dumb play.

"One thing, they're still the world champions and I think they'll be world champions again this year. And whether we lost by one point or 50, we're still the second best team."

Chamberlain had the edge in scoring 30-15 and rebounds 32-29 while arch-rival Russell was ahead in blocked shots 6-1 and assists 8-2.

Looking sheepish about his error, Russell offered this pun: "You might say the game went right down to the wire."

Lost in the tension of the finish was the fact Sanders had scored what was to be the winning basket back at 110-103. Chamberlain got the last six points of the contest.

"I was in position all the way, between the ball and Chet Walker," said Havlicek of his steal. "I knew when Greer took three seconds before throwing the ball in he was going to pass long instead of try to feed Wilt under the basket."

"The team was truly great," said Auerbach. "It came back after dissipating a lead."

BETWEEN THE LINES
BY LOY HOLMAN

need of the haggling that's gone on in the past.

If the change brings about some agreement among these coaches and schools, if nothing else, then it would seem worth it. The league should have a great future, but some of its members have been the worst enemies toward progress.

This next winter CC will have another varied schedule, including a holdiay tournament again, but this time in a shindig at St. Paul, Minn., with North Dakota, Minnesota and Colgate instead of on the East coast. The Tigers also have an elongated road trip — some 10 games — right after the first of the year before finishing out with most of the contests at the Broadmoor World Arena.

In the past, this type of schedule would be killing to any team. Hockey is noted for home ice advantage, and with so many road games right off the bat a squad would probably be out of the playoff before getting a chance to regroup at home. Now, no matter how the start comes out, all teams will have the opportunity to go all the way until beaten in the playoffs.

It probably isn't a perfect plan . . . few are. But it seems in the right direction, and it certainly should prove interesting.

Stottlemyre Gives Keane First Victory as AL Boss

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Keane must have known something when he quit the St. Louis Cardinals.

Why, the season's four days old, the Cardinals are the only team in the majors without a victory and Keane's New York Yankees already have posted their first triumph.

Keane, who managed the Cardinals to their World Series triumph over the Yankees last season, acquired victory No. 1 as an American League manager when the Yankees whipped the Los Angeles Angels 4-0 Thursday night.

It was Keane's first triumph in three games as Yankee head man — and the guy who got it for him is an old favorite, Mel Stottlemyre. The young right-hander was the losing pitcher in the seventh game of the World Series as Keane and the Cardinals whipped the Yankees.

While the Yankees were winning their first game, Washington's Bennie Daniels made a serious bid for the season's first no-hitter in a 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox, but Smoky Burgess broke it up with a pinch-hit single with two out in the eighth inning.

Elsewhere, unbeaten Detroit made it three in a row by beating Minnesota 6-4 and Kansas City whipped Cleveland 7-3. Baltimore and Boston were not scheduled.

In the National League, Cincinnati crushed St. Louis 10-4, Milwaukee downed the Chicago Cubs 5-1 and the New York Mets edged Houston 5-4 in 10 innings. The San Francisco-Philadelphia, Los Angeles-Pittsburgh games were rained out.

Stottlemyre kept seven Angel hits will scattered while receiving more than enough support from Roger Maris, who slammed a homer and a single and drove in two runs. Stottlemyre, supported by three doubleplays, walked none and struck out four while permitting only one Angel to reach third base.

Marcelino Lopez, acquired by Los Angeles in the Bo Belinsky trade, allowed the Yankees only five hits in eight innings but contributed to his own downfall with three walks.

Daniels, who shut out the White Sox twice during the last month of the 1964 season, faced 22 men before a ball was hit out of the infield. Then, with two out in the eighth, Ron Hansen's slow roller skipped through the legs of shortstop Ed Brinkman for an error instead of the third out.

Burgess followed with his hit to right field, and then J. C. Martin singled home a run, giving the White Sox a 1-1 tie.

Daniels exited for a pinch hitter in the ninth but not before Frank Howard and Willie Kirkland had put him ahead by crashing consecutive homers off Hoyt Wilhelm.

The Tigers shot past the Twins on homers by Norm Cash and Al Kaline. Kaline's two-run homer in the seventh snapped a 4-4 tie created by Cash's three-run shot in the fifth.

Dave Wickersham, touched for seven hits by Minnesota over the first three innings, allowed only two more in the ninth and grabbed the victory.

Bert Campaneris stroked a double and three singles for the Athletics, driving in the tie-breaker in a decisive two-run fifth inning rally following a throwing error by Larry Brown.

Ed Charles doubled in two more runs in the seventh before Campaneris wapped it up with a run-scoring single in the eighth. Rocky Colavito hit a two homer for the Indians.

LESSON IN BALANCE—Muriel Grossfeld demonstrates balance, an attribute of physical fitness and her specialty gymnastics, to Air Force Academy cadets Dick Gardner and Bert Slusher while participating in the recent Western Regional Clinic of the President's Council on Physical Fitness, held at the AFA. The three-time Olympian and National AAU gymnastics champion for nine consecutive years was voted the girl they "most wanted to keep fit for" by the Cadets. Hawks Thump Red Wings In Stanley Cup Semi-Finals

By BERNIE KENNEDY
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Rival coaches Billy Reay and Sid Abel agreed Thursday night that the Detroit Red Wings' surge to the National Hockey League's regular season championship took a lot out of the team.

"We reached our peak a little too early," Abel said after watching the Black Hawks thump his Detroit team, 4-2, in the deciding game of the Stanley Cup semifinal playoffs.

"A coach likes to have his team reach its peak in the playoffs," Abel continued. "We got going just a little early."

The Red Wings won 12 and tied another of their last 15 games and won the title by four points.

"It takes a lot out of a team to win the regular season championship," Reay echoed. "I said that last year but no one would listen to me. I said the Red Wings breezed in to finish fourth while we were in a fight for first. They beat us because they were fresher.

"This year, and especially tonight, we just wore them down," Reay concluded.

The Red Wings took a 2-0 lead on first period goals by Norm Ullman and Gordie Howe.

And, while Stan Mikita and Eric Nesterenko notched goals in the last period to decide the issue, the two coaches agreed the turning point came in the second stanza.

Reay said Doug Mohns' score-tying goal with less than two minutes remaining turned the tide in Chicago's favor.

Abel said Bobby Hull's marker, his eighth of the series, while the Red Wings were playing two men short, gave the Black Hawks the lift they needed.

"It was a good series to win, and a hard one to lose," Reay offered.

The Black Hawks, who last won the coveted Stanley Cup in 1960-61, will be playing in their first final in three years.

Montreal, which plays host in the first two games of the best-of-7 final starting Saturday, last appeared when it captured the Cup in 1959-60.

"Montreal has more scoring depth than Detroit and is about as fast as we are," Reay said in evaluating his next foe.

Abel said he did not feel the extra days of rest — Montreal won its semifinal series last Tuesday — would help the Canadiens.

"This Chicago team seems to be picking up speed," he added.

Matson Could Break Two Records in Kansas Relays

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Meet records by Texas A&M's Randy Matson in the discus, by Southern Illinois or Missouri in the university sprint and by New Mexico's Clarence Robinson in the broad jump were forecast for today's seven-event card in the 40th Kansas Relays.

Marks in the discus and sprint medley seem certain. Missouri decided Thursday to pass up the four-mile relay and put Robin Lingle, a 1:49 half-miler, in the sprint medley. Lingle, a 4:01 miler, will anchor the distance medley Saturday.

Finals in the other 19 events will be held Saturday. Preliminaries in most of these will come today.

Matson's 201-5½ in a dual meet Wednesday night was a collegiate record. His next best throws are 189-1½ and 188-8. These are well beyond the meet record of 178-1 set in 1957 by Kansas' Al Oerter, a three-time Olympic champion and former world record holder.

Matson will try Saturday to better his own world shot put record of 67-11¼ set a week ago. He's likely to get the first 70-foot throw in track history, considering he's only 19 and a sophomore. The world discus record also is within his reach.

Cornell, with a career best of 4:03.5 in the mile, is concentrating on the half and quarter this year. His 1:48.6 anchor 880 led STU to a meet record of 3:19.4 in the sprint medley at the Texas Games, with Oklahoma and Nebraska right behind. Both are entered, making it a four-team sizzler.

Cornell likely will run the anchor mile in the distance medley Saturday and his duel with Lingle and Kansas' Herald Hadley could produce a meet record. Missouri will pull Lingle out of the two-mile relay Saturday.

Kansas will be heavily favored in the four-mile relay, which it won at Texas, but the meet record of 16:41.6 set by Lingle and Missouri last year seems safe.

The broad jump meet mark of 25-6 is in jeopardy because Robinson has a career best of 25-6¼.

Olympic Field Set for Meet At Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Many of the nation's Olympic track and field performers will make their first 1965 outdoor appearances on U.S. soil Saturday night in the Valley of the Sun Classic.

Featured event is the mile run, which matches Olympic 5,000 meters champion Bob Schul against Tokyo 10,000 meters winner Billy Mills.

They may not be favored, however, because the field also contains sub-four-minute milers Jim Grelle and Archie San Romani Jr., among others. Grelle, at 3:56.1, has the best career time of the group.

Another good battle shapes up in the discus, where Bill Neville, Jay Silvester, Bob Humphries, John McGrath and Parry O'Brien are among the entrants. Neville has a 205-foot toss, best in the world this year.

The javelin should be hotly contested, with America's top two throwers of 1964, Frank Covelli and Larry Stuart, matching tosses.

Mike Larrabee and Ted Nelson, who set recent world indoor records for the 400 and 800 meters respectively, are the favorites in the quarter and half miles.

Other favorites are Blaine Lindgren in the high hurdles, Rex Cawley in the intermediate hurdles, George Young in the two-mile and Ralph Boston in the broad jump.

The pole vault is expected to be hotly contested among Ron Morris, Mel Hein Jr., John Rose, Floyd Manning and Finnish Olympian Risto Ankio.

World Champs Only Major League Team Without Win

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Schoendienst must be starting to wonder about that fact even though he was there — as a coach — when St. Louis defeated the New York Yankees in the 1964 World Series.

For the rookie manager still seeks his first victory after Cincinnati walloped St. Louis 10-4 Thursday night.

The defeat left the Cardinals with three straight defeats after an opening day tie, making them the only winless team in the majors. It also left the big four of their pitching staff with an horrendous 7.36 earned run average.

As the 1965 baseball season nears its first weekend, the Cardinals haven't looked anything like the team that came from 54 games back and won the National League pennant in the final two weeks of last season.

With Bob Gibson, the Series hero, drawing the opening day pitching assignment, the Cardinals battled Chicago to a 10-10 tie in 11 innings. That's the closest they've come to a victory.

Before the Reds bombed them, they lost twice to the Cubs with southpaws Curt Simmons and Ray Sadecki roughed up. Bob Purkey, a winter acquisition from the Reds, was the victim Thursday night.

Even the New York Mets are ahead of St. Louis. The Mets edged Houston 5-4 in 10 innings, marking the earliest they've won a game in their four-year existence.

The Braves, opening their final season in Milwaukee, whipped Chicago 5-1 in the only other NL game. Rain washed out the San Francisco-Philadelphia and Los Angeles-Pittsburgh games.

In the American League, the Yankees won their first game, 4-0 over the Los Angeles Angels, while Kansas City defeated Cleveland 7-3, Detroit remained unbeaten by stopping Minnesota 6-4 and Washington downed Chicago 3-1.

Two of the hits off Purkey were home runs. Vada Pinson clouted a three-run blast that capped a four-run uprising in the third inning, and Gordy Coleman unloaded a grand slam in the fifth.

John Tsitouris limited the Cardinals to five hits, two of them run-scoring doubles by Ken Boyer and Dick Groat in Flood's homer in the eighth.

The Mets won their first game on Bobby Klaus' 10th-inning homer off Claude Raymond after Jim Wynn tied the game for Houston with a two-run homer in the ninth. In their first three seasons, the Mets lost nine, five and four games before winning.

En route to the triumph, the Mets pulled the third triple play of their brief career.

Wynn started it in the second inning when he flied to Johnny Lewis in right field. Lewis fired to catcher Chris Cannizzaro, who tagged Walt Bond at the plate and then threw to Roy McMillan to nail Bob Aspromonte trying to reach second.

Bob Sadowski held the Cubs to four hits and ignited a three-run Brave outburst in the third with an infield single. The Milwaukee pitcher also figured in a later run with a sacrifice bunt. Ernie Banks homered for Chicago in the fifth.

Wife Calls Shot -- Yancy Fires 65 at Houston

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Bert Yancy and Homero Blancas are two young golf pros who say pressure does not make them nervous.

They are newcomers the first round gallery of the $55,000 Houston Golf Classic applauded. Such stars as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player were absent but Yancey, 26, and Blancas, 27, performed like steel-nerved veterans.

Yancey's wife, Linda, picked the score — 65 — on the first tee and her husband, a former West Point cadet adjutant, ignored a light rain and tricky wind to match it with a mid-afternoon 31-34 — 65.

Blancas, son of a maintenance worker at Houston's swank River Oaks Country Club, finished in the last threesome in bright late afternoon sunlight and saw a 50-foot putt that would have given him a first place tie with Yancey stop two feet from the cup.

It was Blancas' first official 18-holes as a tournament pro and he thought he played a "loose game" while taking a 33-33 — 66 on the 7,233-yard, par 35-36 — 71 Sharpstown Country Club course.

Between them, the two front runners had 12 birdies and one bogey. Blancas followed an eagle 3 on the par five 570-yard third hole with a three-putt 4 on the par 3 190-yard fourth.

"I was not a bit nervous," said Blancas.

Yancey, a Florida native playing out of Philadelphia, said the same thing, but he did not crack a smile while discussing $11,000 in 1965, just two years after losing his PGA tournament card for failure to compete regularly.

Compared to Blancas, Yancey is practically a veteran in that his $11,000 total money includes a runner-up spot in the recent Phoenix Open.

Blancas was the All-Service champion when he was discharged early this month by the Army. He finished third as an amateur, in the 1963 Classic with a four-under-par 270.

Newcomers held four of the top five positions going into today's second round. Tied at 67 with Bobby Nichols, the 1964 PGA champion, were Buddy Weaver, a young Texan, and Ken Still, a Tacoma, Wash., pro on his fourth PGA tour.

Two Colorado Grapplers Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two wrestlers from Colorado won their first round matches in the National AAU Freestyle Wrestling championships Thursday.

At 138.5 pounds, Limm Long of Boulder, Colo., pinned Bill Hoeft of the 12th Naval District in 4:47.

Al Sampson, of Greeley, Colo., won a decision over Frank Pratt of Stanford Univ. at 171.5 pounds.

A 154 pound grappler from the University of Wyoming, Leon Mickelson, was pinned in 2:15 by Jerry Pamp of the San Francisco Olympic Club.

'Forgotten Play' By Baldwin Is Given Praise

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — A play that James Baldwin almost forgot, "The Amen Corner," brings some late-season excitement to Broadway.

Written a dozen years ago when he was 28, the drama which opened Thursday night at the Barrymore Theater bristles with hallmarks and blemishes of his later literary career. The fire in his writing sometimes becomes just smoky obscurity.

The story concerns a Negro woman preacher who is seeking a hiding place in religion from the troubles of domestic life. Her husband, a vagabond trombone player, comes home to die, her apron-string son rebels, the congregation ejects her from her pulpit.

Baldwin fleshes these bare bones of plot with certain scenes of emotional intensity and others that are merely mawkish. The spirit of affirmative exaltation upon which it ends contrasts with the rage of "Blues for Mister Charlie," a play about race which he wrote much later and which ran here briefly last spring.

The production, which previously had a long engagement in Los Angeles, is directed by Frank Silvera to embrace gospel-singing ardor and bravura cast work.

As the troubled priestess, Bea Richards ranges a difficult gamut with great assurance. Silvera, doubling as her wayward spouse, flaws his portrait of a lusty realist with some histrionics.

Fine work is done by Art Evans, as the couple's son and Gertrude Jeannette, Isabell Sanford, Juanita Moore and Whitman Mayo, various backsliding and backbiting members of the "Tabernacle of Love and Truth."

The company's work is handicapped by some awkward Vantile Whitfield scenery.

"The Amen Corner" is being produced here by Mrs. Nat King Cole, following a wish of the late singing star. Despite shortcomings, in a season of feeble dramatic endeavor, it is a welcome exhibit.

BAG GETS BIRD

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. F.A. Farham heard the telephone ring as she was vacuuming. She turned quickly to pick up the phone. The cleaner accidentally pulled a pet canary, Joey Boy, into the vacuum bag. Mrs. Farham quickly jerked the bag open and rescued the feathered creature, but he was so covered with dust as to be unrecognizable. She put him under a faucet for a quick bath and then under a hair dryer to prevent his catching cold.

The bird hasn't been singing since the ordeal, Mrs. Farham says, but he is eating well.

It took two days in good weather for a trip between New York and Philadelphia in colonial stagecoaches in the mid-1700s.

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Profits Prevent Poverty

We repeatedly run across evidence that our young people in schools are not being taught the facts concerning the operation of our business community. Teachers and professors, by far and away the largest number of them, have apparently bought the socialist panaceas, and call for larger and larger intervention in the market by the government.

One of the major areas of our concern relates to profits. The young people today not only do not know that profits are necessary, they seem to believe that profits are immoral and anyone who makes profits is somehow dirty and some kind of villain.

Let's take a look at some figures.

In 1961 the gross profits of all U.S. corporations came to $46 billion. You can almost hear the dismay expressed by our juniors. What a lot of money in the hands of private people! They'd think nothing of it if the government had ten times that sum. After all, the government is supposed to be looking after all of us.

$46 billion. All that money going to make the rich richer and the poor poorer! The children don't know it but that was the contention of Karl Marx and one of the very reasons why we are so close in our practices to Communist Russia.

What about that $46 billion? Where did it go?

Well, more than $22 billion of it went into the hands of the government. That's right. Taxes in 1961 gobbled up that many dollars just from our big corporations. Suppose the corporations had made no profits. Where would government have gotten the money?

And don't come forward to suggest that the government could have printed it. If government can print money that is good, why should they be so picayune today? Why not just have the government turn on the presses for an extra day or so and give each of us a million dollars? If the government can print money that will do the job, that would certainly be a way of making this nation rich.

As a matter of fact, if government can provide the money without taxation, why not have them begin now? We'd all appreciate it. And most of the opposition to government could be eliminated on the spot.

You know and we know that government can't do it. Instead of making us rich, it would impoverish us. And that has been proved again and again by various governments which have attempted time and again to arrive at a financial paradise by printing more money.

Out of that $46 billion, with $22 billion already spent on taxes; another $15 billion went in dividends to some 17 million stockholders, who then had to pay millions in individual income taxes. The giant corporations aren't owned by a few men; they are owned by many millions of men and women of all walks of life. Many of these 17 million took some of what was left of those dividends after individual income taxes and turned around and bought more stock so that more people could find jobs and more products could be made for more people.

Another $8 billion was retained by the corporations as undistributed funds from which they financed new plants and improved tools and pioneered new products and developments.

Thus, a great part of the area of profits AFTER taxes went to produce more jobs and more products. Suppose there had been no taxes. Then the area of increasing industry could have increased by that much more. What would that mean?

It would mean that more goods could be produced so that you could buy more goods for less money. It would mean that more jobs would be available and more money available on individual jobs.

Look at it the other way. Suppose there were no profits. Then who would reward the persons whose savings have made industry possible? Who would put up that $17 billion in dividends? The government? We've already answered that suggestion. You don't have it. Very well. We wouldn't have had the amount of industry we now have.

What about the $8 billion retained for reserves and plant expansion and improvement? Suppose the corporations hadn't had this money. Where would the new construction come from, the new products? The government again? Take another look; and this time include the Soviet Union and their methods. Do you want to swap our conditions for theirs? Would you have provided it? Of course not.

The result would have been widespread poverty across the land. Profits prevented that much poverty. And we'd be further along today if we had more and larger profits. But the schools, as a rule, don't teach these facts.

The Shorter Work Week

The propaganda for a shorter work week is on the increase. But why stop at 30 hours as the ideal. If cutting 10 hours off the work week is a good thing, why wouldn't it be even better to trim off a few more hours? Is it possible to have too much of a good thing?

Cutting the work week to forty hours in FDR's time did not improve the employment situation. But it did have an adverse effect on the nation's economy. It slowed down the work on nearly all construction jobs for the simple reason that the contractors cannot afford to pay time-and-one-half for overtime work and make a profit, unless they raise their bids so high that they would discourage building in the first place.

So, jobs that could be finished in six months on a 48 hour a week basis, now take a month longer to complete. Of course bigger and better machinery have to a great extent solved the time problem, but the jobs would be completed that much sooner with a longer work week. The idea of the 40 hour week was to put more men to work. The over-time pay was a penalty against the employer in an effort to force him to hire more help. It has never worked out that way. In a pinch, the employer has preferred to keep his experienced men on the job at over-time pay.

The unions have used the over-time pay as a wage boost, and that appears to be what FDR had in mind at the time he put over the 40 hour week. It got him in solid with the union bosses.

A thirty hour week will increase the labor pool faster than new employees are hired. Moonlighting will become a national pastime. Very few people really want to be part time employees. They will seek other jobs and, being skilled, will find them. Instead of new crews being hired from the ranks of the unemployed, the moonlighter will get the jobs while the government is training the unskilled in an effort to upgrade them.

You can't blame a man for moonlighting. After all, his purpose in working is to make money. If government and the unions make it possible for him to hold two full time jobs at union rates, he'd be a fool not to take them. 60 hours per week are not impossible, only 60 years ago everybody worked that long — and there was no unemployment.

It is our belief that the work week can and will be cut by the industries themselves as automation advances. But it will probably be optional with the employees, some of them choosing to work longer hours while others choose the shorter ones. An arbitrary decision by government and the unions for 30 hours NOW will become one of the biggest stumbling blocks to progress that has ever yet been dreamed up.

Nation's Press

$48,000

From The Freeman

By PAUL L. POIROT

It was a receipted bill for electrical service rendered in 1907 by the Edison Light and Power Company to a customer in Wichita, Kansas. The bill was for $7.00 for a month's service — for only 14 killowatt-hours of electricity. (Collection must have been something of a problem in those days, because the bill specified: "Less 20 per cent if paid before the 10th of the month.")

The bill was made out on a postal card, the other side of which bore the one-cent stamp that paid for its delivery across town.

In the 58 years since 1907, the postage rate has risen to 4 cents a card — 400 per cent of what it was then; whereas, the price for electricity has steadily declined from 50 cents per kwh to 2 cents now — 4 per cent of what it was then.

An average American home today, if fully electrified with air conditioning and heating, would use about 24,000 kwh annually, costing $480. At the 1907 rate, that cost would be $12,000; and if kwh prices had behaved as has the price for delivering a post card, the electrical bill would be $48,000 annually. Except, that no one would use electrical appliances!

One may speculate as to what those respective rates might be today had the situations been reversed, with a government monopoly of electrical service, and a free enterprise postal service.

How much profit was earned over the years by the Edison Light and Power Company and its successors in Wichita is unknown to us, but we do know that within a recent period of years while the Post Office was accumulating a deficit of $10 billion, its largest competitor in the communications field, the privately owned American Telephone and Telegraph, showed $22 billion in profits — despite the fact that the rates it could charge for phone service were regulated and controlled by the Federal Communications Commission.

The comparative performance of governmental and private enterprise, even when both are subject to price control, is further illustrated in adjoining news items from the front page of The Wall Street Journal of November 27, 1964:

Postal rate increases for business mail may be recommended by President Johnson in his January budget message. The increases might be as much as $300 million annually. Postmaster General Gronouski said the President ordered him to draw up proposals for rate boosts on second and third class mail. These would chiefly affect newspaper and magazine publishers and users of direct-mail advertising.

American Telephone reductions in long-distance interstate rates estimated at $100 million annually were announced by the Federal Communications Commission. The cuts take effect in two stages on Feb. 1 and April 1. The FCC said it had moved for the reductions, to which AT&T indicated it had agreed reluctantly, after reviewing the company's profit picture.

In view of all the talk about protecting consumers, the record suggests that private enterprise is a better caretaker than the government.

CITY WITHOUT METERS

To the Editor:

In his recent column on "The Parker's Delight" Rufus Porter did a customarily delightful job of pointing out to us again what a snare and a delusion was hung on us some years ago when the city fathers foisted parking meters on us.

Parking meters serve to charge the citizen-taxpayer for what is already his to use free — after all, he paid for its construction, and he pays daily for its maintenance. Having paid for it, that is enough, no user charge is appropriate. More than that, such a charge can be held parallel to the case of Double Jeopardy, in which the Constitution guarantees the citizen freedom from a second trial for one action if the first trial has been completed. And isn't paying for the construction of a street a kind of trial? Well, I lost that test case when I raised it long ago: the jurists concerned happened to approve the meter profits to the city.

But it is not always so. Yuma, Arizona is a growing and progressive town, about the size of the Springs when we first got the (censored) parking meters. Yuma had meters up to a few years ago, but the merchants themselves decided that the meters not only solved no parking problems — they complicated them so badly that the public was going elsewhere to shop. Yuma merchants and the Chamber of Commerce put the screws to the town fathers, told them that parking meters had to go even if taxes rose to compensate, and now Main Street Yuma has not one parking meter! It is a lovely place to shop: all you have to do is park your car and go; when you are done, come back and get it — no watch-watching, no ticket on the wiper, no share of the city's stock for losing the race to your car (with the police tricycle), and what's more, nobody parks all day, for this would block parking places and be bad for business: the merchants police THAT situation themselves. Niether have I heard that taxes were affected by the change. It was just a defeat for the forces of official squeeze.

Now, Neighbors, do we follow Denver toward permitting officials and associated petty despots to rob us daily of that which is ours under a clear title (the streets), or do we follow our previous selves and the modern example of Yuma, and demand that the city fathers not only refrain from the new tattle-tale meters, but abolish the existing nuisances while they are thinking about it? Downtown merchants can see trade going to outlying shopping centers already, and parking meters have lots to do with it, perhaps these merchants and their Chamber of Commerce will take the lead to get rid of parking meters.

Let's ask 'em!

HOW GREAT

To the Editor:

I shall quote the president's message on economic development in this letter, and show that many of his statement are incorrect, and many of his plans have been tried and found to be failure and still are failures. Russia tried to make an ideal state, by farming all the land in common, and taking over all business, and all manufacturing, mining, medicine, etc. they found the people did not agree to give up their farms and businesses without a fight. The result was fifteen million lives had to be sacrificed before they accomplished the take-over. Then they found that farming their way did not produce enough food to feed the people. Their handling of business has been so pronounced a failure, that visitors remark about the poor stocks carried in their stores, inferior quality and quantity and service.

President Johnson says, "The present ARA program of low-cost forty year loans for development facilities would be continued largely unchanged under the new program. Huge appropriations would be made for business and farming. Can't he see that the huge loans will seldom be paid, they will practically be gifts. The payments for the large salaries for the thousands of directors of these programs will be enough to bankrupt the nation. You cannot change human nature by giving a pauper money you cannot make a business man of him.

This ARA business, whose results the President brags about, have in many cases simply put in competition that has run successful businesses out by the new ARA subsidized programs that don't have to make a profit. If they lost money government loans will pay the bills. The poor people that get the new jobs will displace the ones that had them.

The President seems to think that if the government starts a business in a depressed area, that private capital will help provide money to add to the capital supplied by the government. He is much mistaken about this, capital always seeks successful business to make its investments in. Only the very ignorant would invest in anything the government promotes, because no such business will make a profit. Look at the thousands of houses that have been foreclosed by the government at tremendous loss, and they still keep on building more and bigger. There is not a single enterprise the government promotes that shows a profit, so why should a citizen invest in them?

Pres. Johnson is a dreamer. He dreams something that will seem good to the poor voter, because they are in the majority, if he can promise them the impossible things, that he knows can't succeed they will vote to continue him in office, that is what he wants. His Medicare program is not what it seems to be, they say it will do everything for us poor folks over 65, and most of us have better insurance now, without taxing all the working population for another and poorer insurance. The start of medicare will be costly enough, but each year it will increase immensely. England found that it cost five times more than they bargained for, and still is increasing.

Johnson's Great Society is a dream that will bankrupt this nation, without providing any benefits to anybody. The power of his office should be curtailed, and the power of the Supreme Court, and the power of Congress.

God bless America, and save her from her government, and foreign entanglements.

CIVIL RIGHTS

To the Editor:

Sorry I did not catch the names of the speakers whose voices I heard on TV the other evening, ranting and raving about the proposed legislation covering voting privileges for all citizens of legal age regardless of race, color, etc. These speakers were harping on the "states rights" theme and one was eulogizing his ancestors who fought and died for the Confederacy. I wish Congressman Evans, or Senator Dominick, or Senator Allott — or Senator Dirksen — would ask their colleagues why this speaker's ancestors are due any more veneration than their ancestors, or mine, who died wearing the blue! Is mistreatment of some of our citizens a proper "veneration" of the dead?

Then I would like to have these gentlemen tell their colleagues (that these unidentified speakers may hear) that "states rights" includes the "right" of each and every state to give ALL its citizens a "square deal"; that each state has the "right" to educate its citizens so that they are qualified to vote; that they have the "right" to register the presently unregistered without delay; and they have the "right" to allow ALL their citizens the right to vote, when qualified, regardless of race, creed, color or financial status.

If the speaker who was so rabid on this matter of "states rights" is sincere, let him "put up or shut up"! Let him work at home among his political brethren to assure that his state will exercise these above-mentioned "rights" BEFORE Congress passes the proposed legislation. Thus there will be no question about "interference with states rights." When the states are doing what they ought now to be doing (and what they should have been doing long, long ago) there will be no need for federal intervention, hence no question as to interference with states rights.

Someone should tell those "die-hards" that only a coward tries to advance himself by trampling on "the underdog"— those denied the right to live as other citizens of lighter color. So-o-o-o, those southern politicians have only themselves to blame. They could have been educating the whites as well as the blacks — they've had a hundred years in which to do it! Had they been doing it there wouldn't be this mess today. They are only wasting their breath and their time attempting to blame "communists," for the alleged communist influence would have been nil had there not been a "vacuum," or fertile soil for the seeds of communism, created by neglecting to face the problem and the concomitant responsibilities.

The officers of our government, from President on down through the Congress and the Supreme Court have all sworn to uphold the Federal Constitution. It is the responsibility of the Federal Government, under that Constitution, to see that the FULL rights and privileges of citizenship are in no way curtailed or denied to any citizen (or any group of citizens) regardless of their place of residence within the United States and its territories.

If the Federal Government has to step in to straighten out procedures in any state that interferes with the constitutional rights of some of its citizens, that is NOT THE FAULT OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT, but it is, instead, THE FAULT OF THE OBSTINATE ADMINISTRATORS of that state in refusing to accept their responsibilities to accord the constitutionally prescribed privileges and rights of citizenship, and the unalienable individual rights, to all its citizens, EQUALLY and IMPARTIALLY!

Of course there are northern states that have ignored the problems of individual rights of those minority groups, as well as their privileges as citizens— but their representatives and senators do not seem to be so bitterly and belligerently vociferous in discussing the proposed legislation.

Very few of us like to see ever-increasing power in Washington, but Washington DOES have a responsibility — an obligation — so when states are weak (minded) in their governments, the doors are opened to Washington intervention. This is not an additional power, but utilization of a power they have had from the beginning, implied by their obligation to uphold the Constitution, which they have sworn to do.

May I repeat, for emphasis. If you gentlemen do not want federal intervention; if you really and sincerely want to enjoy "states rights" without interference from the Federal Government, then START PUTTING YOUR STATE "HOUSES" in order, by making sure that our Constitution is adhered to by your governors on down through all administrative, legislative, judicial and law-enforcement agencies in all cities, towns, hamlets and counties. That's all you have to do to protect your "states rights"! Govern your policies, your actions, by the requirements of the Federal Constitution, that there may be NO INFRINGEMENT of the unalienable rights of the individual, nor infringement of his political rights and privileges of citizenship — that ALL are treated FAIRLY and EQUALLY.

Finally, may I suggest that each one of the opposition consider Matthew 25th chapter, 40th verse, this portion "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me," then look into a mirror and ask himself "what manner of man am I?"

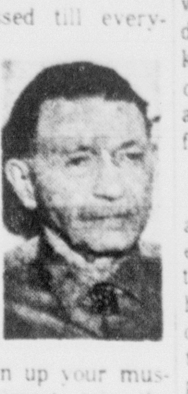
The Local Scene

Come Alive

By RUFUS L. PORTER



The warm spring days are here at last, it isn't long when March has passed till everything begins to grow and flowers bloom where a while ago the frozen ground was under snow.

It's time to check what tools you lack, it's time to exercise your back and tighten up your muscles slack, it's time to trim the roses back.

It's time for spading up the garden, it's time for work — I beg your pardon, for bringing up that naughty word. Oh, look, there goes another bird. That was a yellow finch I heard. I tell you spring is here and now and there's his mate upon the bough — Oh, my back is aching, wow! This plot is big enough to plow.

I guess we've got the things we need; water, fertilizer, seed and that stuff that kills the weeds. We'll plant petunias over here, remember how they bloomed last year? There were no others fine as ours, they are the nicest instant flowers.

Guess we might as well commence, a row of sweet peas by the fence, and by the wall the hollyhocks ,and sweet alysum in the rocks, and on the hill the purple phlox, geraniums in the window box. Save some space here for the mums and in front sweet willieums. Mulch the roses with leaf mold and plant a row of marigold.

This soil is good, see all the worms, just look at how that big one squirms. Pick him up and make a wish, I'll bet that worm would catch a fish. I know a stream not far away, we've done enough work for today, can't over do at first you know, it's best to take it kind of slow. There's a time for work and a time for play. Let's go fishing,' what do you say?

GARDEN TIME AGAIN

And spring came tripping in a little late this year. "The coldest March on record," is what the weather man called it, and he's the guy who keeps the records. We got our sweet peas in two weeks late. We generally plant them on Saint Patrick's day, but there was too much snow and the ground was frozen. Funny thing, we had a mild winter until March roared in, and he didn't stop roaring all month.

But these mild April days will make up for it, we hope. Anyway, we soaked our sweet peas in milk overnight and the next morning quite a few were already sprouted. Our lone lilac bush is budded for the second time. The first time was in January.

Mountain anemones grow in profusion on our hillside, and they will bloom before April runs out, so it won't be long now. The violets will be next, and they grow all around the house, except in front, and man, how they bloom. And our wild columbine keeps spreading. We don't have too much luck with roses, some years good, some bad. But the sweet peas that grow along the rail fence in back of the roses are generally something to behold.

Wild flax and blue lupine and tiger lilies are gaining on our hillside, and the yellow wild sweet peas and several varieties of wild flowers that we do not know the names of. We have been trying to encourage the wild flowers, especially on the hill. But ever since we planted some cosmos a few years back it keeps trying to take over everywhere. I'm getting so I detest the stuff.

We always have wonderful pansies and nasturtiums do well up here. Two years now, we have had blooming hollyhocks, we hope to have more this year, they attract the humming birds. So do Canterbury Bells. Now, there's a flower. They are biennials, that's what it says on the seed packet, and it took the first batch two years to bloom. But ever since then we have had "volunteers" blooming every summer. It seems they reseed themselves. And they are wonderful. Big and beautiful, with a delicate, tantalizing perfume. Bachelor buttons reseed also, but not enough. Cosmos is the only flower you can count on having more of this year than you did last, and all from reseeding. I pulled up thousands of them last year to give some of the other flowers a chance for life.

The most destructive thing around a flower garden is the "Colorado Golden Mantled Squirrel," the hibernating ground squirrel that everybody calls a chipmunk. But cottontail rabbits like flowers, too, especially tulips, petunias and sweet willieums, and a deer will eat everything in sight.

But it's lots of fun living in the mountains and raising flowers.

To The Point

They Wanted Dead Bodies

By RUSSELL KIRK

Masquerading as advocates of "civil rights," some of the demonstrators in Alabama were Communists, revolutionaries, psychopaths, and unpleasant freaks, infatuated with violence. This charge comes not from a segregationist, but from certain thoughtful pro - Negro participants in the Selma and Montgomery troubles.

Take, for instance, the remarks of Rabbi Richard L. Rubenstein, Chaplain to Jewish students at the University of Pittsburgh and other Pittsburgh colleges. Rabbi Rubenstein led 135 students from his city to the Alabama demonstrations. He was aghast at the character and tactics of the "activists and revolutionaries" who belong to the misnamed "Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee."

SNCC, Rabbi Rubenstein points out, deliberately tried to push demonstrators into trouble — even to their death — so that "martyrs" might be created and violence provoked. "They wanted dead bodies — our bodies," this chaplain declares of SNCC. The "none-violent" fanatics repeatedly lied to the Pittsburgh students in order to cause trouble with the police, immorally and illegally invaded a high school to recruit children, and broke from police lines. This commentator adds that President Johnson, if he wants a special law to deal with organizations like the Ku Klux Klan, had best make his statute broad enough to include surveillance over violence-inciting bodies like SNCC.

One trusts that a good many of the clergymen who took part in the Alambama demonstrations have become aware of the sinister character of some of their associates. And perhaps they have begun to think that they have serious work to do in their own backyards, where racial antagonism and the condition of colored people may be more deplorable than in Alabama.

A priest informs this writer that a number of nuns active in the Selma — Montgomery March came from a New York convent. Nowadays their house is situated in a fashionable suburb; but only a few years ago these nuns had their house in Harlem. They have retreated from the disorder of Harlem, but feel fully qualified to tell the citizens of Alabama what to do about the color question. Minding other folks' business fills one with a sense of moral superiority — and saves one from the unpleasant business of improving one's own neighborhood. How pleasant to be a clerical Rip Van Winkle!

The State Department and the White House have been honored by the advice of an eccentric committee on action against South Africa, headed by the Right Reverent James A. Pike, Episcopal Bishop of California. In order to improve, allegedly, the prospects of the South African Bantu, Bishop Pike and his colleagues demand that the United States take measures "not excluding collective military action." How peace-loving! What fun to be a humanitarian with a guillotine — and to enjoy immunity by wearing one's collar reversed! Other people's dead bodies can be useful in their causes.

1,700 Friends Of Barry Turn Out for Dinner

By LES SCHLANGEN

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Barry Goldwater's supporters are still sure he's right.

They showed it Wednesday night when they turned out, 1,700 strong to attend a $100-a-couple testimonial dinner for the 1964 Republican presidential candidate. Some 200 of the guests had to be accommodated in adjacent rooms.

Party unity was the keynote as a succession of Republican dignitaries lauded the former Arizona senator.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said, "Goldwater was right during the campaign and President Johnson is right now on Viet Nam policy."

And he said the President's policy is likely to prevail, "largely because of solid Republican support for a firm stand in South Viet Nam."

Nixon said a defeat in Viet Nam would mean "the Red tide will roll over Asia and some 200 million people, and perhaps force us to defend the Philippine Islands in five or six years."

Former Rep. William Miller of New York, Goldwater's running mate, brought a thundering cheer when he said, "The time will come when Barry is known as a prophet in his own country."

Ray Bliss, the former Ohio Republican leader who took over as a national chairman April 1, praised Goldwater as "one man who could be counted upon any time to go anywhere to raise funds for the party or help a fellow Republican."

The partisan crowd saved its mightiest cheers for Goldwater, who said: "There's no reason why the world's greatest power should talk about negotiations or a settlement in Viet Nam."

The approval was equally strong when he said, "I don't believe we have to destroy the Constitution of the United States to placate Martin Luther King, a Frank Smith or anybody else."

Goldwater told the audience, "We are a minority party in the state and nation. Let's not choose up sides and fight each other but get on with winning the 1966 elections.

"We don't give a tinker's damn about 1968 — now."

Goldwater attacked the President's Great Society and said he has no intention of doing nothing "while a weak-kneed, gutless Congress lets welfare programs be shoved down its throat."

Goldwater said the principles of free enterprise need to be preached and the country's philosophy explained abroad. He said he might be able to help a little on the foreign situation when he leaves today for West Germany. He is scheduled to meet with several Western European leaders.

South Carolina was the first state to secede from the Union Dec. 20, 1860.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined irregularly late Thursday afternoon in profit taking on a sustained advance. Trading slackened.

Volume for the day was estimated at 5.7 million shares compared with 6.56 million Wednesday.

Losses of leading stocks went from fractions to around 2 points.

After three straight days of record highs in market averages and six straight days of advance, the market seemed ripe for a pause, analysts said. The long Easter weekend was ahead. The market will be closed Good Friday.

A respectable number of leading issues bucked the downtrend. Up about a point were such stocks as Chrysler, Caterpillar, Kennecott, Johns-Manville and Reynolds Tobacco.

Colorado Fuel & Iron looked like the volume leader and was a fractional gainer. General Dynamics also was briskly traded but unchanged.

Corporate and U.S. bonds were mostly unchanged.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Prices were generally a little higher today in slow and light grain futures transactions on the Board of Trade.

In the early afternoon, nearly all contracts were unchanged to fractions above previous closes with May wheat posting the best gain on buying which brokers said appeared to be largely for commercial accounts.

The exchange will be closed Good Friday.

Estimated carlot receipts were wheat none, corn 164, oats 3, rye none, barley 1 and soybeans 9.

Johnson Pontiac To Sell Open Road Campers

Appointment of the Johnson Pontiac-GMC-Jeep Co. of Colorado Springs as exclusive open road camper sales and service headquarters for the Pikes Peak Region was announced by Alan M. Robin, executive vice president of Open Road Campers, Inc.

The Johnson organization sells and services Pontiac passenger cars, GMC Trucks and the Jeep line of vehicles, at two locations, 740 E. Pikes Peak and the new automotive complex, 1250 S. Nevada Ave., which was opened in November of 1964.

"With the growing interest in vacationing on the road, the camper has come into its own," declared Verne Johnson, president of Johnson Pontiac. "Americans, more than ever, are realizing that this nation provides a greater variety of scenic and historic locales than probably any country in the world."

Johnson Pontiac's South Nevada Avenue facility is on a three-acre site. Staffed by 53 employees, it has 25,000 square feet of buildings with adequate parking and storage areas.

Future plans include the consolidation of the East Pikes Peak establishment with the new complex which is located between South Nevada Avenue and South Tejon Street, principal north-south arteries through Colorado Springs.

Cripple Creek Mines to Go On Auction

Foreclosure proceedings against seven mines in the Cripple Creek District by the Golden Cycle Corp., will result in the mines being placed on auction during May.

Notice of the foreclosures have been mailed to stockholders of the companies by Max W. Bowen, Golden Cycle president.

The Golden Cycle has been advancing funds for a number of years to meet the expenses of these mines which have been largely inoperative since the end of World War II.

The mines named in the proceedings are: The Cresson United Gold Mines Co., The Elkton Co., D. Jackpot Mining Co., The Jerry Johnson Mining Co., The Empire Lee Mining Co., and the New Gold Dollar Mining Co.

The Cresson in its heyday was the second largest producer in the district, with an output of approximately $50 million on gold. The mine was exceeded only by the Portland Mine group.

Golden Cycle is the biggest owner of propery in the area. It also owns the Carlton Mill which will be kept ready for operation.

Motel Assn. Gets Underway With Advertising

The Pikes Peak Chapter, Colorado Motel Association, will get under way this coming week with the sale of advertising in their service directories for each part of the Pikes Peak Region.

A separate directory is published for each part of town — North, South, East and West.

These directories are distributed by all motels during the summer and advertising space is available for as little as $10.

Anyone interested should contact Sam Blair, Ranch Motel, 636-5071. The proceeds from the sale of these directories are used each year to help finance the outstanding program of travel shows which invite tourists guests to our community.

WRONG REQUEST

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Wilbert Brown should have quit when he was ahead. A jury found him innocent of murder in the death of Willie Clinton. Instead of leaving jail, he asked Judge E.R. Thurman if he could remain in jail overnight as he said he had no place to go. While he was there, a fugitive hold order was received from Louisiana authorities in connection with issuance of a bad check.

CAPETOWN — Fiberglass production is up in South Africa.

Local Men Aid JA Fund Raising Project

Four Colorado Springs businessmen were cited for outstanding work during the recent Junior Achievement fund-raising campaign.

The tribute, in the form of a J. A. emblem paper weight, was paid at a meeting of the Board of Directors of Junior Achievement of Colorado Springs, Inc. to H. Eugene Combs, Columbia Savings and Loan Association; Man E. Harris, Kassler and Company; Al J. Kieffer, Colorado Commercial Bank; and Lt. Col. John Stutts (Retired), Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Agency. The presentation was made by the chairman of the finance committee, Rodger Earley, and the president of the local Board, Ray E. Robinson.

Earley noted the fine accomplishment of this tean under their group captain, Combs. Of 42 assignments reported, the team reached 91 per cent of its pre-established goal. Earley also noted that this year's campaign, when the final tally is made, will result in the raising of some $14,000. This represtnts a 63 per cent increase over last year's results.

Ray Robinson added his personal thanks to the many fine people who worked hard during the campaign to secure the necessary operating funds to continue this much needed business program.

ROOFTOP ROVER

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) -- If your dog hangs around roofs, you won't have to worry about his being run over by a car. That's the theory of the James Ellison family who lost a dog that way several years ago and decided to avoid a similar fate for the new dog.

The new pet spends much of his time roving the roofs of the Ellison home and the workshop building in the rear. He walks a plank from the ground to the workshop roof and another plank from the workshop roof to the house roof. He also has his own tree house. There's a board running from the workshop roof to a nearby tree, where he can spend the hot afternoons in the shade.

FORTUNATE CALL

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) — Officials of the Bank of America branch here are glad that Joy Swanson, a teller, phoned to say she was ill and would not be at work. Two gunmen were in the process of stealing $27,000 from the bank vault when her phone call came in. Mrs. Marianne Evans whispered into the phone: "Robbery call police." Miss Swanson did. As the thieves left the bank, they walked into the arms of waiting police.

INDECISION AND IMMATURITY

Maturity is the secret of a well - adjusted and happy life. It helps man to control his basic impulses and desires and to direct them into channels where they do the most good. The end result is a personality that helps us do the best we can with what we have.

In contrast, immaturity is the bugaboo of psychiatrists. It is responsible for many nervous ailments and behavior problems. The emotionally immaturere act in a way not in keeping with their age. As youngsters, they suck the thumb, soil the bed, and chew the nails long after they should know better. Many adults are in the same category; they never grow up, and as a result, remain juvenile. Ordinary obstacles are too big to overcome, and unless life is placid, annoying anxieties and neurotic tendencies develop.

Maturity is not necessarily the key to success. Many top-flight men and women have forced themselves ahead because they were driven by fear or frustration. They gain momentary satisfaction but never control their inclinations and wishes. They give too little and expect too much.

The mature person has the ability and willingness to act. He does not hem and haw or wait and see. After giving thought to the problem at hand, he either does or does not. He accepts responsibility, obligations, and the consequences of his decisions. These individuals can take criticism and do not blame others for poor decisions.

Mature person know how to compromise with life. They are happy and work harmoniously with others because they are able to adjust to many situations. Immaturity and prejudice go hand in hand. It takes a well-rounded person to give and take or to accept controversial changes when the over-all advantages are obvious.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

PLAYING IN THE SNOW

Grandma writes: Please warn careless mothers not to let their children play in the snow. These mothers are always buying cough medicines for their youngsters.

REPLY

Children should not be deprived of the fun of playing in the snow but they ought to be called in periodically for a change of clothing if their snowsuit and socks are wet.

PERIODIC DISTRESS

Mrs. B writes: Every month, for the first two days of my period, I suffer terrible rectal pain. What could cause this condition.

REPLY

Endometriosis is capable of producing this symptom. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on endometriosis.

WINTER TEMPERATURE

H. W. S. writes: In order to maintain health, what should the average room temperature be in the wintertime?

REPLY

A temperature between 60 and 72 degrees F. is considered satisfactory, depending upon the moisture content of the room. A humidity of 30 to 50 per cent is ample.

RARE TUMOR

J. L. writes: What is Wilms' tumor

REPLY

A rare tumor of the kidney, encountered only in children. If it is removed before the growth has a chance to spread, the outcome is good.

OBSTRUCTED TUBES

L. M. writes: Can blocked Fallopian tubes be opened so conception can occur.

REPLY

Yes, but the operation is not always successful.

24 Million Still Watch Old Movie

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — It has now been pretty well established by trial and error that the job of presiding over a late evening, informal, fun-and-entertainment session on television requires a special talent. It's mostly because the people who watch these shows are a special kind of audince.

The most recent Nielsen statistics indicate that television sets in about one of every four homes remain turned on between 11 p.m. and 1 a.m., and that around 24 million viewers watch the late news and weather and then stay awake for an old movie or something like NBC's "Tonight" show or ABC's "Nightlife."

In the non-old-movie area, Johnny Carson's NBC show attracts the largest number of viewers, estimated by Nielsen at around 3½ million homes.

"Tonight," first under the stormy aegis of Jack Paar and then the less turbulent Carson, has proved to be the outstanding success in this type of program.

ABC trying to attract some of the late viewers, launched "The Les Crane Show" this season, but low ratings and critical drubbing killed the show after a short time. Now remodeled as "Nightlife," it is still attracting a comparativelyy small audience — something under a million homes.

Part of the program's problem is that it lacks any continuity. Comedians like Shelley Berman, Jack Carter and Allan Sherman plus singer Pat Boone have been sitting in for a week or two at a time as hosts but none has caused any hat-throwing by the audience. The comedians have worked frantically hard at being funny — and obvious exertion is incompatible with late evening relaxation. Pat Boone proved relaxed, but as bland as oatmeal.

Man Fined $100, Loses Driving Rights in City

A $100 fine plus a 30-day suspension of driving rights were imposed Thursday by Municipal Court Judge Allan Asher on Ernest Vigil, 22, 1802 W. Vermijo St.

Judge Asher found Vigil guilty of drag racing.

Vigil was represented by attorney Hugh Ross, who was granted a 10-day stay of execution.

On a motion by Deputy City Attorney Roger Hunt, the judge dismissed charges of reckless and careless driving against Michael Tuel, 18, 3001½ N. Prospect St.

Michael Strickland, 15, 2323 Magellain St., was fined $15 on his guilty plea to careless driving. Alexander Oneal, 40, 1027 E. Vermijo St., was fined $25, on an identical charge and a writ of execution was ordered issued as he did not appear in court.

The case of Helen Stote, 65, 2522 N. Wahsatch Ave., was continued until May 6 on a motion by her attorney Ben Wendelken. Miss Stote originally pleaded guilty to a right of way violation but Judge Asher allowed Wendelken to withdraw her plea for a not guilty one, and set her trial for early May.

June Lee, 36, 3121 Water St., was fined $15 on a guilty plea to careless driving. Disposition on a charge of damage to city property was continued until April 30.

Rado Drum, 17, 1002 E. Boulder St., was fined $50 on his guilty plea to reckless driving. Judge Asher suspended $25 on condition the boy attends the traffic lecture May 12 and has no further moving violations this year.

A $100 fine was levied against Daniel Wheelock, 20, 3920 Marion Dr., on a guilty finding of damage to city property. A writ of execution was ordered issued as Wheelock did not appear.

Charges of damage to city property against Richard Ihle, 22, Ft. Carson, were dismissed.

George Bernundez, 21, Ent Air Force Base, was fined $25 on his guilty plea to drunkenness. William McCullough, 38, Cheyenne Wells, was sentenced to 10 days on his guilty plea to drunkenness.

Patrick Hardsty, 18, 2712 E. Highway 24, was found guilty of disorderly conduct on a signed complaint by Barbara Gallborg of Glenview, Ill. Judge Asher continued his case until Monday for pre-sentence investigation.

Reunification Still Sought By Germans

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is expected to tell the world soon that it insists on the right of the Germans to move toward peaceful reunification by their own free choice.

This restatement of the U.S. position will probably come in form of a major policy speech by a top figure of the administration, authoritative sources reported.

Such a speech might replace a three-power declaration, suggested by the Germans, to remind the Soviets of their responsibility toward Germany.

Bonn would temporarily be satisfied with a joint declaration by the United States, Britain and France. The West German government originally asked for a "new initiative," an effort to revive the dormant question of reunification.

Willy Brandt, mayor of Berlin and head of the opposition Social Democratic party, sided with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard in urging Washington to make such a step, possibly on May 8, the 20th anniversary of Nazi Germany's surrender in World War II.

The United States, informants said, agreed to this plan and the British government is known to be sympathetic to it. There was, however, no response from Paris as yet.

American officials do not conceal their annoyance over the French delay, but say they have no reason to doubt that France ultimately will consent. If not, the appeal will be made unilaterally, in form of a top-level speech.

The same officials privately expressed doubts about the wisdom of the timing as suggested by the Germans. It is questionable, they say, that such a step should be associated in any way with Nazi Germany's defeat.

Brandt, who leaves Washington today after three days of meetings, told a news conference Thursday that "in connection with May 8 — not necessarily on that day, but perhaps around that day — something positive should be stated on behalf of the Western alliance and/or the individual Western states."

The mayor said "we know that a large Communist propaganda is under preparation pointing back to the past. We think it is necessary to say something which points into the future."

Carson Heads County Board

B. E. Carson was elected chairman of the El Paso County Board of Adjustment Thursday afternoon, replacing John Straus, who has served as chairman during the past year. New vice chairman is Larry Snedaker.

Carson, employed as sales representative for Robinson Brick and Tile, Denver, resides at 814 Libra Dr. with his wife, Mary Ann, and two children, Debra Ann and Jimmy, both students at Cheyenne School.

Other members of the Board of Adjustment, both active and non-active, are John C. Young, Jr., R. Keith Hook, William A. Crumrine, Cecil Ver Duft, Ray Hunke and Nick Sanborn.

Juilliard School to Get New Building

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans have been filed for a $17.2 million, eight-story building in the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts to provide the Juilliard School of Music with a drama theater and music hall. It is scheduled to be completed in the fall of 1967.

Architects' plans filed Thursday call for a 1,000-seat theater and a music hall to seat an equal number.

The new building also will contain smaller halls and classrooms.

Hunting and Fishing

By DICK MOORE

With the taking of 16 million walleye pike eggs from Bonny Reservoir last week, Colorado's Game, Fish & Parks Department is assured of a record number of 22 million eggs during the state's 1965 pike spawning operations.

Rex Talliafero, fisheries biologist in charge of the six-man spawning crew reported only 4 million eggs from Bonny Reservoir walleyes last week when spawning work got underday. Most fish were "green" at the time and spawning didn't hit its peak until the last few days. Department officials commonly spawn the walleye pike between April 7 to April 21.

Two million or more additional eggs are anticipated from the "green" walleys of Bonny Reservoir kept in holding tanks under controlled water temperatures at the state's Las Animas Hatchery.

Earlier, Tallotero's crew squeezed out a meagre 200,000 walleye pike eggs at Blue Lake (Adobe Creek Reservoir), 12 miles north of Las Animas.

This is considered a poor yield for Blue Lake which was affected adversely by low water levels and high salt content in the remaining water. Normally, Blue Lake yields 6 to 7 million walleye eggs.

Northern pike taken in the nets at Bonny Reservoir yielded 1 million eggs. Here again the fish were too "green" to yield at a high level.

A record 43 inch, thirty pound northern was netted. In addition, 20 northerns reached 25 to 30 pounds, 200 northerns in excess of five to 20 pounds were netted.

Numerous white bass reached 10 to 15 inches. Crappies were running eight to 12 inches and blue gill sunfish commonly stretched to between six and 10 inches.

The 22 million eggs will be hatched at the state's two warm water fish hatcheries. The Wray Hatchery gets 16 million, and six million to Las Animas.

When only one to a few days old walleye pike fingerlings are stocked in suitable waters (Horsetooth, Boyd, Bonny, Jumbo, Horseshoe, Sterling, Vallecito, Blue and Holbrook Reservoirs) to name a few.

Fees for the use of 25 state recreation areas were set by the Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Commission during its meeting in Denver April 8.

The fees will become effective on June 1, 1965, according to the commission, which at the same time eliminated the boat use fee.

A charge of $5 will be instituted for an annual permit, on a calendar year basis, for the use of these 25 recreation areas. As an alternate, a five-day permit may be purchased at a cost of $2 to accommodate the transient guests to the Colorado outdoor recreation areas.

In addition, the commission voted a $2 replacement fee in case a car is sold, destroyed, a windshield replaced or the sticker otherwise lost or destroyed.

The stickers, which must be attached to the windshield of a car in the lower right hand corner, will be on sale at most license agencies in the state that handle the department's hunting and fishing licenses. There are more than 1000 of these agencies in all areas of the state.

The annual permit, when attached to the windshield of a vehicle will permit that vehicle and all the people in it to enter all the state recreation areas so designated and to use the facilities at any time during the calendar year for which the sticker was issued.

While approving the use fee, the commission elimnated the boat use - fee and decreed that there will be no charge for the use of boats in the designated recreation areas until the June 1, 1965 date when the use - fee sticker will be required.

The regulation, adopted by the commission, states the purpose of the fee as follows:

"To finance a reasonable portion of the cost of developing, administering, and maintaining outdoor recreation facilities; to provide additional outdoor recreation opportunities to ensure that no citizen shall be precluded or curtailed in the possible use and enjoyment of basic outdoor recreation activities; and to encourage public support and participation in the development and care of outdoor recreation areas."

STILL MINDING STORE

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — In his 50 years of doing business on the same corner, Forest D. Watkins finds that merchandise and prices have changed but the customers haven't.

In the old days they expected quality, courtesy and a fair price, and for the most part they are the same today, declares the 76-year-old owner of a clothing and variety store. "A thrifty young man could buy himself a complete outfit for a $10 bill," he recalls of the time he opened his store in 1915.

Watkins now numbers among his clientele children and grandchildren of his first customers, as well as some of the original customers. Last Christmas, a woman reminded him it was the 50th year she had shopped there. "She was wrong by a year, but I didn't tell her," he admits. "The customer is always right, you know."
